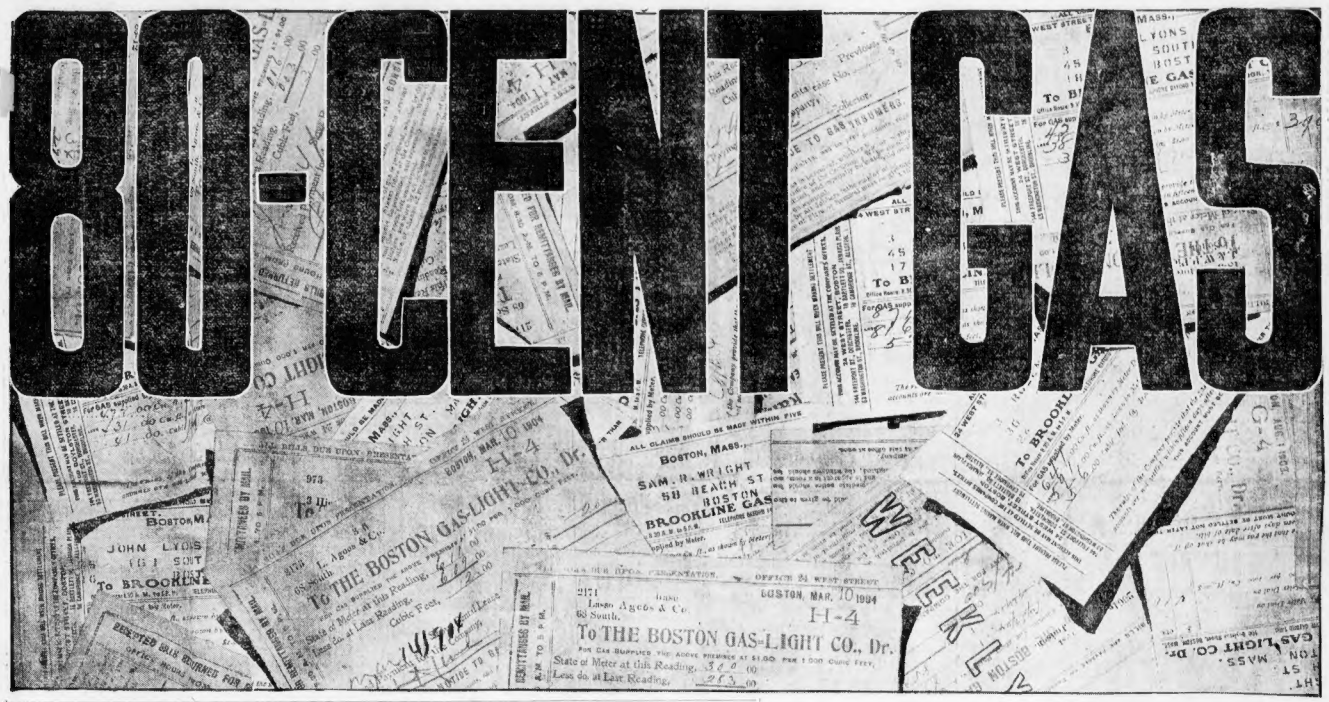
GREAT ARMY OF CITIZENS JOIN IN BATTLE FOR 80-CENT GAS



GEN. STOESSEL ASKS JAPANESE FOR PORT ARTHUR TRUCE

Garrison in Desperate Straits Wounded for Days Are Unattended.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—A Tokio dispatch today says it is reported that General Stoessel, in command of the Russian troops at Port Arthur, has asked for an armistice. The purpose of his request is not stated.

The Japanese are said to have been informed by the Russian aides of the Japanese wounded, and it is therefore hoped Stoessel will capitulate to prevent the Japanese troops from avenging these reported indignities. It is feared that it will be impossible to avert a horrible massacre if the garrison is overcome by force.

A Chefoo dispatch says that a Japanese shell recently demolished a land mine at one of the Port Arthur forts. Between 600 and 700 Russians were killed or wounded. It is reported the recent assaults by the Japanese on Etse Shan fort have been repulsed.

Special dispatches from Port Arthur and Chefoo, which are printed in this morning's newspapers, give terrible descriptions of the condition of the besieged at Port Arthur.

The Daily Mail's correspondent before Port Arthur describes the Russian killed and those taken prisoner as greatly emaciated, and asserts that the men subsist entirely on a daily ration of less than two pounds of black bread.

The Daily Telegraph's Chefoo correspondent declares that the task of burying the bodies of the slain at Port Arthur is now beyond control, and that the corpses are simply pitched into the new dock excavations near Golden Hill, where there is only a few feet of water.

The condition of the helpless women in the fortress. Several groups of them, going to market have been blown to pieces. The street scenes there are said to be sickening.

Bennett Burleigh also sends to the Daily Telegraph a harrowing picture of the condition of the wounded, of whom vast numbers are lying unattended within the inner forts.

RUSSIA AGREES TO INDEMNIFY FOR SONNTAG'S LOSS

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Russia has admitted her error in the Sonntag case in the reported firing on the German fishing vessel by the Russian second Pacific squadron in the North Sea on October 21, and has agreed to pay full compensation to the owner of the vessel.

LORD LANSDOWNE MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR ARBITRATION

LONDON, Nov. 10.—What is regarded as almost an open plea for intervention in the war in the Far East was made last night by Foreign Secretary Lansdowne at the historic Lord Mayor's banquet.

Lord Lansdowne pointed out that arbitration was the only way in which the North Sea dispute with Russia could be equitably settled, and almost in the same breath drew a vivid picture of the horrors of the struggle now proceeding in the Far East. Between the lines of every reference the Foreign Minister made to the Russo-Japanese war was an urgent plea, amounting almost to a demand, that it might be settled by arbitration.

The speech was generally interpreted as a bolder bid for intervention than has yet emanated from any neutral power.

WAR APATHY LIMITS RUSSIA'S FIGHTING FORCE

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 10.—The distribution to join the rioters for Manchuria recently noticeable in south Russia is becoming general throughout the country. Even military men admit that two more European corps will exhaust the Russian stock of effectively trained and properly equipped men.

Terrific Bombardment on Inner Defences Maintained by the Japs.

'LOVE POTION' MAN FINED $100

For using the United States mails to promulgate the sale of "love potions," George Adams, known also as Professor Rupert, to-day paid a fine of $100 in the United States Circuit Court.

Adams was indicted last week and pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Lowell.

Under the name of Professor Rupert he conducted an astrology college on Court street until a "fraud order" from the Post-office Department in Washington closed him up. For the past few months he has been doing an extensive business throughout New England in love philtres. He was arrested three weeks ago.

HEAVY SNOW OUT WEST.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 10.—A heavy snow is reported to-day in eastern Nebraska. Snow also fell in western Missouri.

BULLS FORCING PRICES HIGHER

The wave of post-election buying order which swept over the stock markets yesterday continued on its course to-day, carrying prices of securities to new high levels for the year, in practically all departments of the time was strong and the bear forces were easily put to rout by the energetic tactics of their opponents. The Boston copper share market was strong to the point of buoyancy, Calumet & Hecla rising to a new high level at 530, gaining five points, while Lake Royale gained nearly two per cent. Amalgamated held steady but made no especial gain owing to free profit taking by those who had bought it lower down. Centennial was a strong feature, gaining 1½ per cent.

In Wall street to-day the market was broad and buoyant and there was ample evidence that the public was still buying stocks.

LAUNCH THE NEW JERSEY

Great Battleship Takes Water at Fore River Ship Yards at High Tide.

A BIG THRONG PRESENT

The battleship New Jersey, newest of Uncle Sam's warships, was launched at 12:45 p. m. to-day at the Fore River Ship and Engine Company's yards, at Quincy. Mrs. W. B. Kinney, daughter of Governor Murphy, of New Jersey, bestowed the name of her native State upon the new sea fighter, breaking a bottle of champagne across her polished bows.

A distinguished delegation, headed by Governor Murphy, came from New Jersey to attend the launching. They passed last night in Boston and went to Quincy to-day on a special train which left the South Station at 10:30 o'clock. Only those holding invitations issued by the company were admitted to-day to the yards.

The launching party reached Quincy at 11:30 o'clock, and luncheon was served at the yards.

Governor Murphy was accompanied by his sister, Miss Murphy; his son, Colonel Franklin Murphy, Jr.; Miss Kinney, W. B. Kinney and Mrs. T. T. Kinney, Mr. Kinney's mother, all of Newark.

Of his staff are Adjutant-General R. H. Breintwell and Mrs. Breintwell, Colonel Charles W. Parker, of Jersey City; Captain Lewis F. Bryant, of Atlantic City, and Walter E. Edge, of Atlantic City, and Lieutenant Everett Colby, of West Orange.

Others in the delegation are United States Senator John Kean, of Elizabeth; Congressman H. C. Lombenlager, of the

TAKE YOUR PLACE IN THE LINE TO-DAY. BE A VOLUNTEER!

Thousands Are Signing the Gas Petition Every Day and Getting Their Friends and Neighbors Enrolled in the Greatest Popular Battle Boston Has Ever Seen.

A great army has enlisted in the BOSTON AMERICAN'S fight for 80-cent gas in the city of Boston.

Thousands have signed the gas petition, and additional thousands of names are being received every day. Many have undertaken, beyond merely signing the petition, to help along the popular fight, and have secured the signatures of their neighbors.

These are the company and regimental commanders in the great army.

Many have taken the blocks in which they live and canvassed them thoroughly.

It is volunteers of this sort that are needed to make the people's plea for eighty-cent gas the greatest popular petition ever presented to any governing body in Massachusetts.

Be a company commander in this great army that has enlisted to fight for eighty-cent gas.

It is the most popular fight ever undertaken by any newspaper.

SIGN THIS AND HELP TO WIN 80-CENT GAS FOR BOSTON

Gas Petition Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN,
80 Summer Street, Boston.

I hereby volunteer to work to secure names on the petition to the State Gas Commission for eighty-cent gas for all consumers in the city of Boston.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

HELP TO GET 80-CENT GAS FOR BOSTON

Get in the Ranks; Bring Your Friends and Neighbors With You.

It is the protest of the people against the extortion by a monopolistic corporation. It is the expression of a determination to bring down to a rational and normal price, a necessary product for which a vast body of consumers now pay an excessive rate.

SAVING TO EVERYBODY.

The reduction for which the BOSTON AMERICAN has circulated a petition will mean a monthly saving in almost every household in the city of Boston. It will mean a just reduction of the exorbitant profits now gained by the gas companies. It is a question which touches every citizen, and the BOSTON AMERICAN has yet to hear a dissenting voice to the appeal.

The BOSTON AMERICAN'S investigations show in some localities with minute exactness the money which would be saved to consumers through such a reduction in the price of gas. In one block on Beacon Hill, of sixty-five families, forty-six of which consumed gas, the October gas bills aggregated $370.62. At 80 cents per 1,000 cubic feet those consumers would have paid only $296.52, a saving of $74.13, or an average of $1.62 per family for the month.

THOUSANDS OF LETTERS.

Accompanying the signatures to the BOSTON AMERICAN'S petition have been thousands of letters. These letters protest against the price of gas in all instances, the quality in many cases and the impossibility of securing redress. It is through the monster petition, however, that redress may be obtained.

To make the petition the greatest ever formulated, the BOSTON AMERICAN wants volunteers to not only sign the petition themselves but to take an active part in the fight and secure the signatures of their neighbors.

The BOSTON AMERICAN wishes to make the petition so large, and so expressive of the demands of the whole population of this city, that when it is presented to the Commissioners it must receive serious and favorable consideration.

IS THE PEOPLE'S FIGHT.

This fight is in the interests of the people and they have shown that they are ready and eager to do their part to make it a great success. Many of them have already assisted in the work of adding names to the petition. Hundreds more can be utilized in the same way. The blank petitions may be had by calling at the BOSTON AMERICAN office, Nos. 89-92 Summer street.

Volunteers are wanted from every section of the city—from the North, South and West Ends; from East Boston and South Boston; from Roxbury, Dorchester, Jamaica Plain, Brighton and Charlestown. Men and women and boys and girls are asked to volunteer for this important work.

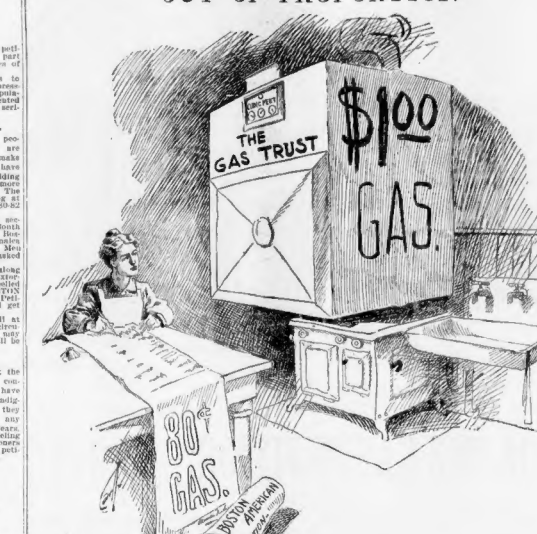
Any person who wishes to help along the fight of the people against the extortionate gas bills that they are compelled to pay should call at once at the BOSTON AMERICAN office. Ask for the Petition Editor, on the fourth floor, and get blank petitions for circulation.

Those who cannot conveniently call at this office, but who are willing to circulate the petition in their neighborhood, may write for blank petitions and they will be sent by return mail.

PEOPLE INDIGNANT.

Letters that have been received at the BOSTON AMERICAN office show conclusively that the citizens of Boston have been wrought to a higher pitch of indignation over the exorbitant price which they are forced to pay for gas than by any other injustice they have suffered. They appear to it that this unanimity of feeling is impressed upon the Gas Commissioners by the strongest and most convincing petition that was ever presented to them.

OUT OF PROPORTION



"I've always thought that thing was too big."

MAYOR COLLINS'S ARGUMENT FOR CHEAPER GAS FOR BOSTON

Mayor's Office, Boston, Mass., Oct. 27, 1904.

To the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners:

The undersigned, the Mayor of the city of Boston, a city in which the Boston Gas Light Company, the Brookline Gas Light Company, the Dorchester Gas Light Company, the Jamaica Plain Gas Light Company, the South Boston Gas Light Company, the Roxbury Gas Light Company, the Bay State Gas Company of Massachusetts, and the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Company, said companies being now owned and operated by the Massachusetts Gas Companies, so-called, are located, complains that the price of gas to the public is maintained at the price fixed more than twelve years ago, although certain circulars of Kidder, Peabody & Co. soliciting subscriptions to stock of said Massachusetts Gas Companies, and the annual report of the board of trustees of the Massachusetts Gas Companies for the year ending June 30, 1904, copies of which are hereto annexed, coupled with the reports made to your board of the number of cubic feet of gas sold to consumers by said companies during the years covered by said reports, show that the profits are larger than they should be in a city of the density of population of Boston.

The undersigned would, therefore, petition your board to order said gas light companies to reduce the price of gas to the city of Boston ten cents per thousand cubic feet and to all other consumers twenty cents per thousand cubic feet, or make such other or further reduction as your board may deem just, so that a reasonable price for gas may be established in Boston practically contemporaneously with the fixing of the capitalization of the Consolidated Company, to the end that consumers of gas and persons intending to invest in the securities of the Massachusetts Gas Companies Trust may be apprised of the price which the Boston Consolidated Gas Company is to charge for gas.

PATRICK A. COLLINS,
Mayor.

IS YOUR NAME ON THIS LIST? IF NOT BETTER SIGN TO-DAY

Following are the names of a few of the many thousand citizens of Boston who have signed the petition addressed to the Gas Commissioners asking for eighty-cent gas. These names are from every section of the city and represent consumers who are anxious to have the present extortionate price of gas cut down.

Thousands more of signatures are wanted. Every reader of the BOSTON AMERICAN is asked to help swell the great petition to be presented to the commissioners. Those names have been collected at random from the long lists that arrive daily at this office:

LET THE GAS TRUST SPEAK UP, IF IT DARE, AGAINST CHEAPER GAS

The BOSTON AMERICAN does not desire to be unfair to any person or property interests in its fight, in the people's behalf, for cheaper gas.

It will be pleased to print any arguments against cheaper gas which the Gas Trust of Boston may advance. What can the Trust say for itself?

GREAT BATTLESHIP LAUNCHED TO-DAY

Naval Committee; Congressman R. Warne Parker, secretary Congressman George Hires, Mrs. Hires and daughter, Carroll P. Bassett and wife, of Newark; the Hon. David Baird, Mrs. Baird, Mrs. Dr. Rice secretary; William Dalrymple, the Governor's secretary; William T. Hood, editor of the Newark Sunday Call; Elbert Rappelyer, editor of the Jersey City Journal; Mr. Frederick C. Jacobsen and Miss M. E. Atkinson, of Newark.

Powerful as Any Warship.

The New Jersey, one of five first-class battleships of similar design authorized by Congress in 1899 and 1900 will, when completed, be as powerful in her armor and armament as any warship afloat.

With a length of 435 feet, a breadth of 76 feet 2½ inches, a displacement of 14,948 tons and a draft of 23 feet when fully loaded, the New Jersey will be a veritable floating mountain in size. She will have a speed of nineteen knots, faster by four knots than the fastest battleships in the United States navy. She will be propelled at the rate of 10,000 horse power, developed by triple expansion engines of about 10,000 indicated horse power, running under conditions of maximum speed, at about 120 revolutions a minute.

The New Jersey will carry four twelve-inch guns, forty calibres in length, mounted by pairs in balanced turrets, one turret forward of the superstructure and the other aft, and each having a total arc of fire of 270 degrees. She will have eight eight-inch guns, forty-five calibres in length, which will be carried on the main vessel, four will be mounted by pairs in turrets, placed on the broadside, and four in two broadside turrets slightly forward of amidships, the amidships turrets having a total arc of train of 160 degrees.

Powerful Broadside Battery.

In the New Jersey there will be a broadside battery of the gun deck of twelve six-inch rapid fire guns, mounted six on each side, each with a total arc of train of 121 degrees, and protected by the twelve-inch shield of twelve three-inch rapid fire guns; twelve-pounder semi-automatic guns; eight one-pounder heavy automatic guns, two thirty-calibre machine guns and six thirty calibre Colt automatic guns, all mounted in commanding positions, without having large arcs of fire. The vessel will also be fitted with submerged torpedo tubes.

The keel of the New Jersey was laid in 1901 and work has progressed rapidly, but it will be another year before she will go into commission. Her total cost to the government will be about $5,000,000.

GALVIN HEAD OF NEW HOSPITAL

Institution at No. 144 Kingston Street Has its Formal Opening.

Under the superintendence of Dr. George W. Galvin the new Boston Emergency and General Hospital, at No. 144 Kingston street, has been formally opened. A large number of medical men and others interested in the work of the institution were present at the reception.

The hospital occupies five floors of the building, and is fitted with new apparatus of almost every sort down to modern efficiency. There are accommodations for forty-one patients, and Dr. Galvin has a corps of twelve surgeons and sixteen nurses with which to begin work. The whole place is not only roomy and of immaculate appearance, but is most artistically arranged and furnished.

A new board of directors will soon be elected and the hospital will be run on a somewhat different plan from the old Emergency Hospital. Besides the regular members there will now number more than 30,000, and who pay $1 per year, receiving in return free medical treatment they may need during the year, a number of paid patients will be taken who will have separate rooms.

While the hospital is primarily designed for the use of members and pay patients, any injured person may be taken to it and treated the first time without charge.

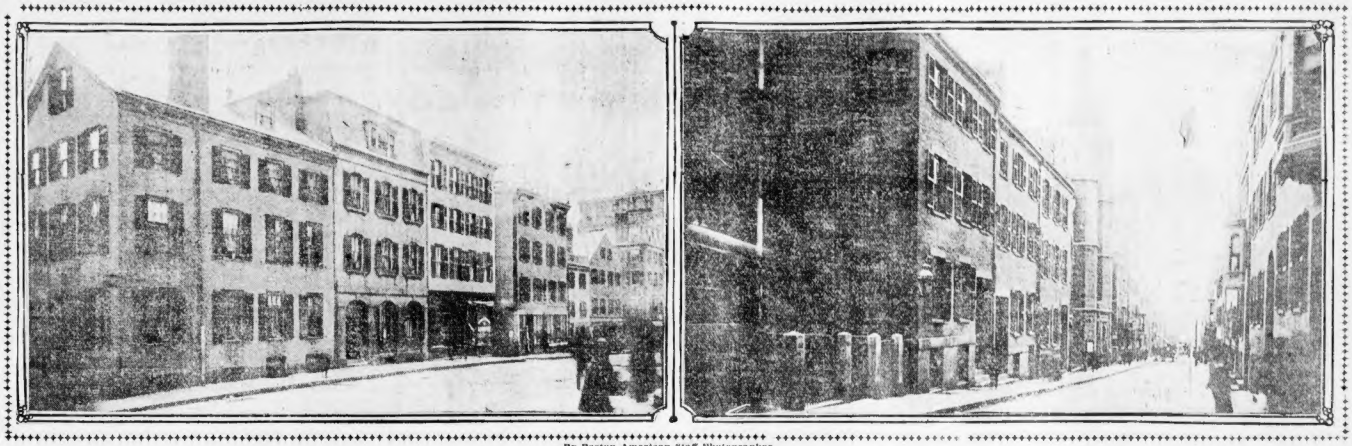
THOUSANDS DENOUNCE GAS EXTORTION



By Boston American Staff Photographer.

DERNE AND TEMPLE STREETS, BOUNDING CITY BLOCK CANVASSED IN GAS CAMPAIGN.

Popular Demand for Relief From Dollar Rate Shown in the American's Canvass.

To show exactly the difference that would be made in the bills for a month if the price of gas were reduced from $1 to 80 cents, representatives of the BOSTON AMERICAN interviewed members of every family in one city block.

The block selected contains sixty-five families, forty-six of which take gas. The block lies on the north side of Beacon Hill, just back of the State House, and is bounded by Derne, Temple, Cambridge and Hancock streets.

The October gas bills of the families of this block amounted to $370.65. Had the price been 80 cents per thousand, as the residents of Boston are demanding through the BOSTON AMERICAN, they would have to have paid only $296.52—a saving of $74.13, or an average of $1.02 per family for the month.

This story shows in actual dollars and cents what some of the people of this city believe the Massachusetts gas companies is wresting from them unjustly. There are thousands and thousands of others who have similar stories of extortion to tell.

Many of the people interviewed in the block canvassed were women and their appeals for help to fight against the trust is pathetic. No matter how unjust they consider their bills, they declare, they are forced to pay them or suffer their gas to be cut off. Complaints at the gas office, they say, avail them nothing. Many of these women desired to thank the BOSTON AMERICAN for carrying on their fight for cheaper gas through its columns.

Some of the residents of the block expressed themselves on the situation as follows:

Mrs. J. McDonald, No. 30 Hancock street:

My gas bill last month was $12.10, and my past experience tells me that it will reach $18 per month before the Winter is over. I believe that this is altogether too much, and that the work that the BOSTON AMERICAN is doing toward a reduction is most commendable.

E. F. Kittredge, No. 24 Hancock street:

My gas bill this month was $10.70. I don't think that this is right, but I fear that if the price is cut down the quality will be poorer, and in the end we will pay the same, just as our bills now amount to nearly as much as they did when we were paying $1.20 per 1,000 cubic feet. It seems as if supreme should force the gas companies to give us good gas at fair prices, and if the BOSTON AMERICAN can do this it should have the gratitude of all Bostonians.

Mrs. W. A. Carlisle, No. 59 Temple street:

My bills usually average about $3. I don't see why it isn't possible to supply gas at cheaper than the present rate. The BOSTON AMERICAN is doing excellent work in behalf of the people.

Mrs. O. C. Eastman, No. 46 Hancock street:

I think that the price we are compelled to pay for gas is an outrage, and that every householder owes his thanks and support to the BOSTON AMERICAN in this matter. I paid $7.50 for gas this month, which was more than I should have paid."

Mrs. C. L. Colby, No. 40 Hancock street:

I use gas in my house but a part of each evening, and I find that my bill for October is $3. It seems to me that this is too much. The BOSTON AMERICAN has my thanks for what it is doing, as it should have the thanks of everyone else who uses gas in the city.

Mrs. J. A. Warren, No. 20 Hancock street:

I think that the BOSTON AMERICAN can bring about a reduction in the price of gas, and that it should be looked upon as a benefactor to the public. My last month's gas bill was $10.20, and I have to pay it whether I think it is just or not, or go without gas.

W. Warterton, No. 40 Hancock street:

I paid $5.60 for the gas I burned last month in two rooms, and I suppose others have paid a proportionately large sum. I hope that the AMERICAN will be successful in what it is attempting. It certainly ought to be.

A. B. Foster, No. 32 Hancock street:

I can't understand why I have to pay so much for gas. Last month my bill was $5.90. I have been to the company to complain, but it was useless. I have to pay or go without gas. There is no appeal from their arbitrary decision. I gladly hail the BOSTON AMERICAN as the people's champion and prophesy success for it.

Charles Gregory, No. 34 Hancock street:

I should like to thank the BOSTON AMERICAN for its agitation in this matter. I paid $2.10 last week for gas, which is more than I ought to pay, and I suppose I cannot help it until the BOSTON AMERICAN has beaten the companies.

Mrs. Albert Wilson, No. 14 Hancock street:

I think that the extortion the gas companies are practicing is scandalous. Last month I had to pay $7.90, and I do not use a gas stove or burn gas in any other way to any very great extent. If the BOSTON AMERICAN can see that the public is treated fairly, it will be doing a great work.

Mrs. M. Whitman, No. 18 Hancock street:

I think that everyone should take this matter up and help the BOSTON AMERICAN, as it is helping the people. I have long suffered from the injustice of the gas corporations. Last December I discovered that the meter in my house was out of order and notified the company. They took the meter out and put in another. Now my bill for the previous month and been $8.20 and that for January was $9.20, while that for December was $12.30. This seemed to show that the broken meter had registered incorrectly. I called at the office of the company and asked them to investigate. After four visits I gave the matter up. I was unable to get any satisfaction. I had to pay what they told me to or go without gas.

Now the BOSTON AMERICAN is showing that the people have some rights and are not always to be in the power of corporations, I expect that we may be able to get some measure of justice.

Mrs. Gough, No. 16 Hancock street:

My October gas bill amounts to $13.10. This is exorbitant, but we are all in the hands of the gas companies until the BOSTON AMERICAN shall deliver us.

Mrs. L. McDonald, No. 32 Derne street:

My gas bill this month is $5. It is a very common trick of the gas company to charge for gas you don't use. Sometimes my gas bills are very large and they increase considerably during the Winter, but no matter how high the price there is no use making a complaint for you have to pay the bill just the same.

Mrs. M. Blanchard, No. 55 Temple place:

I find fault with my bills all the time because I certainly don't burn as much gas as I am charged for. My last gas bill was $8.50, and this is only a small house. We are so glad that the BOSTON AMERICAN is taking this matter up. It is certainly awful the way we are treated, and it is certainly grand for the BOSTON AMERICAN to take up this thing. Nearly every body in my house buys the BOSTON AMERICAN, and when I am done with it the paper I sold. "Oh, what a grand thing."

Mrs. Mary E. Baldwin, No. 31 Temple street:

I don't think the gas companies are justified in having such high prices. I have made several complaints to the gas company about my bills, and there was an increase of $1.50 between the September and October bills. Of course, we have to use a little more gas in the Winter, but it doesn't seem as though there should be that much difference. My last gas bill was $4.50, and my April bill was $3.40, the seasons being about the same. The gas companies are getting altogether too much for their gas, and I hope that the BOSTON AMERICAN is successful in their efforts against them.

George H. Kumpel, No. 23 Derne street:

We usually have to pay for any bill we receive, and I think that the gas company would make a good profit even at eighty cents. I think the BOSTON AMERICAN deserves great credit for this effort, and I am sure you will succeed.

Charles F. Fuller, No. 33 Temple street:

I think the bills at the present rate are very high. Our gas bills are about seven or eight dollars, and last month's bill was $7.80, which I think is a pretty high price according to the amount we use. I think the BOSTON AMERICAN'S action against the gas companies is an excellent thing for the people.

S. C. Tetford, No. 61 Temple street:

I think we are paying entirely too much for gas, and I don't think it is out of the way to say that with the price of gas at fifty cents the gas companies would be making an excellent profit. However, eighty-cent gas will help considerably in cases like mine, where bills reach $10, and the BOSTON AMERICAN deserves great credit for its efforts.

Mrs. M. E. Dewar, No. 25 Temple Street:

I should like very much to have my gas bills lower, for I think that the rate now being charged is exorbitant. I am sure I don't use as much gas as my bills call for, but it is useless to dispute, for you have to pay anyway, whether you like it or not. My October bill was $4.90, which was an increase of $1.50 over September. The BOSTON AMERICAN'S plan certainly has my approval.

T. H. Brown, No. 15 Temple street:

It certainly is quite an idea and a good one for the BOSTON AMERICAN to interest itself in this matter. Everybody wants a lower rate for gas. As I have a large house, and my bills seldom go below $10 and often up to $18, you can readily see that for me alone it would be quite a saving.

Mrs. Mary E. Johnson, No. 27 Temple Street:

My gas bills usually average about $3.50. Of course, we would naturally like to have the gas bills brought down to a lower figure, and the BOSTON AMERICAN has the support of the people.

Thomas Burke, No. 61 Temple Street:

There is not any more gas burned in my home now than there was the same time last year, and yet there is a difference of $1 in my bill. I hope the BOSTON AMERICAN will be successful in securing a lower rate for gas.

L. Goodman, No. 22 Derne Street:

The gas companies have things too much their own way. They are giving us poor gas, and you might say that they are getting money free of charge. We all wish the BOSTON AMERICAN success in its fight against the gas trust.

Emery Murray ,No. 24 Derne Street:

I certainly wish that the gas companies would give me cheaper gas, for they are actually raking money from me all the time. My gas bills are enormous, and I trust that the BOSTON AMERICAN will secure for us the slight reduction of 20 cents.

THOMAS A. DUNN, Charlestown:

I can't see any reason why we should not have 80-cent gas. The only question being whether it will be a standard quality.

MICHAEL J. REARDON, Charlestown:

I notice the AMERICAN has undertaken the work that I had hoped would have been brought to attention of the gas commissioners before now. We want 80-cent gas, and the sooner the better. I hope the AMERICAN will succeed in the fight.

WILLIAM H. SULLIVAN, Charlestown:

I hope the AMERICAN will succeed in getting 80-cent gas, we ought to have it.

WILLIAM H. OAKES, Charlestown:

I am heartily in favor of 80-cent gas, and hope the AMERICAN will get it.

THOMAS EAGAN, Charlestown:

Let the AMERICAN keep up its good work for 80-cent gas. We ought to and must have it.

MARK SMITH, Charlestown:

I don't understand that if this petition goes through that it will affect Charlestown. The Charlestown Gas Company being an independent corporation. I am in favor of 80-cent gas.

MT. HOPE WILL TAKE ACTION IN GAS PLAN

By Charles S. Leanord, Secretary of the Mt. Hope Improvement Association.

OUR association will certainly take action on the gas question at its next meeting, and I am sure that every member will only be too glad to sign the petition. The BOSTON AMERICAN has taken a perfectly intelligent stand, and we all want to see it successful in its great fight for the people.

E. M. SWEENEY, Charlestown:

Eighty cents is enough to pay for gas.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

JOSEPH DOWD, Charlestown:

We ought to have gas for eighty cents good enough for anyone, and I am glad the AMERICAN has brought the matter up.

JOHN J. FRASER, druggist, No. 358 Meridian Street:

The AMERICAN is conducting a much-needed crusade against exorbitant prices for gas. I feel sure that the present rate can be largely reduced.

R. GOODWIN, shoe dealer, No. 139 Meridian Street:

The present rate in this district is an imposition. We want gas for 80 cents, and it is not too cheap at that. The AMERICAN is doing good work.

F. O. BERQUIST, grocer, No. 222 Meridian Street:

I hope the AMERICAN will get 80-cent gas. The present rate is much too high.

P. G. ALLENDORF, grocer, No. 263 Meridian Street:

The AMERICAN deserves great praise for its efforts to secure cheaper gas. It is needed.

WILLIAM K. McDONALD, tailor, No. 305 Meridian Street:

Success will be attained by the AMERICAN to get cheaper gas. It is needed and can be secured.

NARROW ESCAPE FIGHTING FLAMES

John Callahan, of Ladder No. 5, had a narrow escape from a horrible death at a fire in a stable at No. 111 Athens street, South Boston. He was fighting the fire from the roof of an adjoining building when he lost his balance and fell thirty feet, finally being wedged in a narrow space between the two buildings. His comrades had to chop a hole through the walls to rescue him.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 10.—In looking up the history of the two bills now before the Vermont Legislature, one to substitute for commutation of the death sentence of Mrs. Mary Rogers, the other providing for the abolishment of capital punishment, I find that there has been almost no lobbying done regarding either.

"Why not?" I asked a prominent legislator. "They are both important bills and bills about which there is strong and decided feeling."

"They are too important for lobbying," he declared. "No one would care to try to influence the opinion of another on such a question as the life or death of individuals, and no one who would allow himself to be so influenced is the kind of man we ought to have in our Legislature. The question is one which must be left to the individual conscience."

Oh! again that New England conscience! One encounters it at every turn. Which ever way the voting goes, the world may rest assured that it was a conscientious vote which tipped the balance.

"If Mrs. Rogers was my mother, or my sister, or my wife, or my daughter, and she had committed such a crime as she has, I, personally, would ask that she pay the extreme penalty of the law. If the law said hang her, then I should want her to hang," was the way in which a member of the House expressed himself to me to-day.

Would Forget Love.

"You would forget all love for her, all tenderness, all ties of kinship?" I asked.

"All," he replied, with emphasis, his face set and hard and stern as was his forefathers when they left their ploughs and grabbed their muskets to fight for the freedom of their Green Mountain State.

"What right," he continued, his voice shaking with emotion, "would a woman who by such means, in such manner, could commit such a crime, have to expect mercy from others? What right would anyone have to try to evade the law's ruling for such a woman. My conscience would never allow me to remember the ties of blood in such a case."

There is no doubt in my mind as to the vote of that man. No one has to be alone. There are others ready to cast their vote the same way and for the same reason. Their consciences demand it.

I cannot see how in the clear, dry, crisp, penetrating air of Vermont, crookedness and deceit and dishonesty can exist. I can understand hardiness, shrewdness, slyness, but none of the point of dishonesty.

It is partly the New England climate which has kept the New England conscience strong and clear, and the Legislature convenes on Wednesday there will be little business done when I have said that beyond the routine of calling the members together and the reporting of some committees.

Both Are House Bills.

Both are House bills, and will have to be acted upon by the House. Indeed that action may determine them. They may meet the very fate they are fighting against. They may be killed. In that case they would never reach the Senate. Or they may pass the House only to meet death in the Senate, only a previous vote before me as a member of her case is reached. Then she will either be pardoned for death in the penitentiary of incorrigible criminals, or she will be taken from the loneliness now stalking near and go back to the kitchen and the laundry.

If her life is spared it is not impossible that she may have fifty years—a full half century—of prison walls, prison fare, prison garb and prison rules. Such a contingency before her. In her place, what would you wish? I would pray for death, would beg for it, would welcome it. Show mercy to such beings? Hang? I would cry out to the prison officials, the lawyers, the Governor, to hang me.

And the news of a life sentence would, I am sure, bring more woe than the call to the gallows.

PAPAL PHILIPPINE ENVOY IS COMING

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Archbishop Agius, Papal Commissioner of the Philippines, sailed for New York to-day aboard the Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha. He will have a conference with President Roosevelt, and will then proceed to Manila, where he will endeavor to settle the Roman Catholic schism.

MAN AND WOMAN DEAD, GAS JET OPEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—In a room at Jackson and Ford, Williamsburg, the dead bodies of Peter McNamara and Mamie McGrath, 20 years old, were found by a chambermaid. The latter was in the place told the story of their death.

Coroner Zucca gave it as his opinion that the couple had committed suicide.

SET DAY OF DEATH AND IT CAME TRUE

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., Nov. 10.—"If I could live until my eighty-second birthday, I would be ready to die then," said Samuel C. Tarbox, a prominent resident of this town, a short time ago. Yesterday was his eighty-second birthday and he died of paralysis.

Fort Ethan Allen who is accused of killing a special policeman.

Bennington County is Mrs. Rogers's home county. Perhaps in no other part of the State is feeling at this time against her as in her own home, the place where she lived, where she committed the crime and where she was tried and sentenced.

The Washington County delegation of that delegation is responsible for the estimate that two-thirds of the county vote will undoubtedly go to sustain the present law.

By a leading member of the Democratic party I was told that only a very small percentage of the Democrats will vote to repeal the law.

The greatest opposition will come from Windsor County, at the county seat of which the State Prison is located.

Windsor County has more representation than any other in the State, and some of Vermont's ablest men always fill its members. It will take several of the smaller and less important counties to stand united in their vote in order to offset the influence of this delegation.

One of its members, Mr. Dartt, whom I believe is a Springfield man, ranks as one of the great men of the Assembly. When he speaks the others all up and listen, and his words carry weight.

Great Interest in Bills.

Needless to say that when the bills come to vote nearly every member will be in his seat. The House has 123 votes. To carry the bill will take 120. It is not likely that the vote will be acted upon the same day, and it is impossible to tell which will come up first.

It is a most broad-minded Assembly in all its branches. It is a body of men who think for themselves and act according to their convictions. Such a body is not apt to be swept by oratory nor swayed by sympathy.

The Vermont Legislature is not vibrant with emotions. Rather it is calm, passive, self-contained. Whatever it does is done with a clear understanding and from a keen sense of duty.

So seriously do the members consider the abolition bill that it is not even discussed among them, and a committee of the judiciary committee told me that he thought it would be practically impossible to agitate the temper of the House with any individual satisfaction all the voting men from the State, while resolutely bent on keeping from using names, or else the lips of all would be sealed. Then I have seldom been in a legislature where there was so little talk—so little of it idle talk. Members are not talkers—at least not about their own affairs. Of all the people I have ever met they know better than any others how to keep their own counsels or to themselves if they wish to.

In several instances I have found the one I was trying to interview sitty turning the tables on me and trying to extract information from me, while he selfishly kept what he knew to himself.

At other times, the man from whom I have been trying to wrench a bit of authority or information has smiled, has stroked his beard, smiled again and—said nothing. Then I have seen him if he believed in the death penalty for the taking of life he has nearly always stopped smiling, stopped stroking his beard, looked me squarely in the face and said, almost as decisively that I have jumped, for fear he was going to bite his mustache off, as bark it.

Of all this discussion, the chief cause for its being, Mary Rogers, is perfectly ignorant.

She still believes that "they will never hang me," as she has told me time and time over again. But of what is being done or said, or how people feel or believe on her chances, she knows nothing.

Nor can she ask any questions. In silence and solitude must she abide until the time when the fate of her case is reached. Then she will either be pardoned for death in the penitentiary of incorrigible criminals, or she will be taken from the loneliness now stalking near and go back to the kitchen and the laundry.

If her life is spared it is not impossible that she may have fifty years—a full half century—of prison walls, prison fare, prison garb and prison rules. Such a contingency before her. In her place, what would you wish? I would pray for death, would beg for it, would welcome it. Show mercy to such beings? Hang? I would cry out to the prison officials, the lawyers, the Governor, to hang me.

And the news of a life sentence would, I am sure, bring more woe than the call to the gallows.

DOUGLAS VICTORY EPOCH IN HISTORY OF TRADE UNIONS

Effectively Silences the Cry of "Keep Politics Out of the Labor Movement."

By Joseph E. Jackson.

First Vice President, Massachusetts State Branch, American Federation of Labor.

The election of William L. Douglas marks an epoch in the history of the labor movement of this State. It demonstrates to the people of this State and the country at large the political power of organized labor when intelligently directed.

While not claiming that the large majority received by Mr. Douglas was due solely to our efforts, still it must be admitted by every fair-minded person that with every other factor eliminated, organized labor alone could have defeated John L. Bates.

The educational value of this campaign to our people has been incalculable; no more can our enemies effectively raise the cry, "Keep politics out of the labor movement."

JOSEPH E. JACKSON.

Our people have learned the necessity of political as well as economic unity, and in the future there will be greater activity on the part of trade unionists in the political field.

Our people are just beginning to realize the fact that the evils they suffer from are brought about and fostered by legislation, and it is only by united political action that such evils can be remedied.

Demonstrates Political Power of Organized Labor When Intelligently Directed.

This campaign has taught them their power, and how effective that power can be made politically.

The campaign just ended has taught another lesson, that is, the necessity of concentrated effort on the part of labor. While Governor Bates's veto of the women and minors' bill was the principle issue against him it would have been impossible for the textile workers alone to have defeated him. But the combined labor movement, as represented by the State branch of the American Federation of Labor, made his defeat possible.

This lesson should not be lost sight of either by those affiliated with that body or those outside of it. With all organized labor concentrated in a body of that kind, intelligently directed, the control of the State would be in the hands of the workingmen. And why should it not be so? The workers are the creators of wealth; they are the majority of the people, and therefore should control the destinies of the State and country.

TO OPEN FALL RIVER MILLS NEXT MONDAY

Manufacturers Will Try to Break the Textile Strike and Start Idle Machinery.

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, Nov. 10.—The long-delayed attempt to break the textile strike will come Monday next, when the mill owners will open the mills and give all operatives who go back to work the new wage scale. It is a reduction of 12½ per cent from the old, and when it was posted months ago caused the operatives to quit. They lost millions in wages and endured great privation, but still insist it is better to face cold and famine than to toil for less than living pay.

Strike leaders say they believe that operatives will go back in numbers to enable the manufacturers to run the plants. Secretary O'Donnell of the Mule Spinners' Union said:

Will Appeal to Men.

"I have no doubt that many men who have children depending upon them for bread will go back, but we shall appeal to them to stand by the union. That will be the only move to prevent them going to work."

No fear of disorder when the mills resume work is shown. Although the strike has lasted four months and been the greatest textile strike ever known, the strikers have been so orderly that they have won universal praise. Their chief aim now is that the American Federation of Labor will assess all its members and thus provide the funds to fight the manufacturers for an indefinite time. President Golden of the United Textile Workers has started for San Francisco, where the A. F. of L. convention will be held, to urge this move by that body.

Manufacturers say that they cannot pay the old wage scale and make business pay. President Borden of the Manufacturers' Association explains why the mills will be opened on Monday, saying:

Urged by Tradesmen.

"We have been urged by the tradesmen, the stockholders and people about the city, who are charitably inclined, to open our mills, and after a review of the situation we have decided to open the gates on Monday morning and give those who desire to work a chance to return.

"We shall open under the new scheduled rate of wages. We have explained and showed to the labor leaders that we cannot afford to return to the old wage rate, and if the people do not want to return Monday it is not for them, and we can do nothing but close our mills again. If we find enough men to run a mill it will be in an indefinite period, and it will be doubtful if they are opened again this winter.

"It is, of course, an experiment so far as the present situation is concerned, but it is one that will prove satisfactory. There will be no trouble with the operatives who left the city who we understand from a reliable source have returned and will come back to Fall River any time the mills open."

OVER 2,000,000 IS ROOSEVELT'S BIG PLURALITY

President Re-elected By Vote Unprecedented in Nation's History.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Roosevelt will have 343 votes in the electoral college and Parker 133. Roosevelt's popular vote is the largest ever given a candidate for the Presidency. It is estimated that he received over 2,094,000 plurality. This is more than double the plurality McKinley received in 1900 and more than three times that as McKinley received in 1896. In 1896 McKinley's popular plurality was 601,384 and four years later 861,716.

Roosevelt's plurality in New York State was 172,222 (estimated), while Higgins ran behind his ticket more than 100,000 votes in his plurality being 72,159.

Roosevelt Carries 33 States.

Parker's plurality in Greater New York was 38,886, while Herrick's in the same territory was 80,624. Roosevelt carried Brooklyn by 1,805. Herrick's plurality in Brooklyn was 13,359. Parker carried Manhattan and the Bronx by 33,313, Herrick by 60,962; Parker carried Queens by 4,013, Herrick by 5,404; Parker carried Richmond by 493, Herrick by 809.

Roosevelt carried thirty-three States. Parker eleven. Pennsylvania gave Roosevelt a plurality of 400,000. Illinois came second with 240,000. Ohio gave him 200,000.

California rolled up a plurality of 105,000, while Minnesota trailed along with 125,000, New Jersey with 75,000 and Michigan with 164,000.

Folk Wins in Missouri.

Joe Folk was elected Governor of Missouri, despite the fact that Roosevelt carried the State, and nearly all the Republican candidates with him. The Republicans are not, however, ready to concede Folk's election.

The Missouri Legislature will probably be Republican on joint ballot, which will prevent Senator Cockrell's return to Congress.

Colorado gave Roosevelt 15,000 plurality, but Peabody is probably defeated for Governor by 5,000.

In Wisconsin, where the LaFollette and Spooner Republicans have been at sword's points, Roosevelt won out with 75,000 plurality, and LaFollette was elected by 50,000. Congressman Babcock, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, has squeezed through with 284 votes to spare.

Democratic Governors Elected.

Six States which went for Roosevelt elected Democratic Governors. They are Massachusetts, West Virginia, Minnesota, Colorado, Missouri and Nebraska.

Roosevelt carried Nebraska by 75,000, but Berger and Democratic nominee for Governor was elected by about 8,000. The Legislature will be strongly Republican, so that W. J. Bryan may not go to the United States Senate this year.

The State of Washington fell into line with 50,000 for Roosevelt, and Senator Turner, Democratic candidate for Governor, who was expected to win, was beaten by a plurality of 7,000.

In Minnesota Roosevelt received 125,000 plurality, while Johnson, Democratic nominee, was elected Governor by a small plurality.

West Virginia went for Roosevelt and elected Cornwell, Democratic nominee for Governor.

New Jersey gave Roosevelt 75,000 plurality, and Stokes was elected Governor by 50,000.

Full returns from all parts of the country, with only three congressional districts missing, show that the next House of Representatives will shape up like this: Republicans, 244; Democrats, 142; Republican plurality, 102.

Addicks Probably Beaten.

Addicks is probably beaten for the United States Senate in Delaware. The Legislature is deadlocked and the office will probably remain vacant.

Chicago, usually Democratic, went for Roosevelt, every one of the thirty-five wards giving him a plurality. Cook county rolled up a plurality of 100,000 for Roosevelt. Congressman gave Roosevelt the unprecedented plurality of 18,300, and little Rhode Island trailed along with 15,000 for Roosevelt, and gained a Republican Governor.

The Socialist vote in Illinois and California was very large. In the former it was 150,000.

JACOB MORSE'S FUNERAL TO-MORROW AT BROOKLINE

Widespread Sorrow Expressed at the Death of Prominent Business Man and Philanthropist.

The funeral of Jacob Morse, of the firm of Leopold Morse & Co., which will be held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. J. Dreyfus, No. 34 Beech road, Brookline, to-morrow at 10 a. m., will be attended by members of C. W. Kinsley Post, G. A. R., Charles Sumner Council, R. A., Covenant Lodge, I. O. O. F., Moses Mendelssohn Lodge, I. O. F. S. of I., and Elysium Club.

Mr. Morse's sudden death has caused widespread sorrow in business circles throughout the city, and his loss will be keenly felt in educational circles and different charitable organizations to which he devoted so much time and labor.

For years and years he devoted a considerable part of his time to the service of the City of Boston without remuneration and was at all times willing to become identified with any movement tending to the betterment of the people.

He served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of City Cemeteries without salary, was Chairman of the Leopold Morse Home at Mattapan since its organization, honorary trustee of the Congregation Adath Israel, was connected with a number of charitable organizations, and was also a director of the Federal Trust Company.

TROLLEY CRASH IN BACK BAY

An electric switch, moved at the wrong time, caused a collision between two trolley cars to-day at Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue. The cars were badly damaged, the windows broken and the passengers shaken up and badly frightened.

As an outward bound Watertown car, No. 1,178, was turning the corner of Boylston street into Massachusetts avenue, the motorman of the following car threw on the power, which drove the car ahead. It happened just as the forward truck of the Watertown car had passed the switch and the rear truck ran toward the other track, causing the car to collide with an inward bound Chestnut Hill car, No. 1,478. There was considerable excitement, but no one was injured.

GOLD MEDAL TO THOMAS MOTOR

A gold medal has been awarded the E. R. Thomas Motor Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., for their exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition, instead of a silver medal, as previously reported. Through a mistake in the list of awards published, the Thomas exhibit was credited as having won the lower medal.

The Buffalo automobile builder was very heavily handicapped by the Judges on the fact that owing to the enormous demand for Thomas "Flyers" it was not until August that the company was able to send a machine to St. Louis, but they make point of superiority on the model eventually shipped made up for heavy docking due to tardy opening, and the gold medal was awarded.

The Thomas "Flyer" six-cylinder racing machine is now complete in the assembly room of their factory and will be sent out for road trials next week. Should the new addition to the Thomas family prove worthy of its name, it will be sent South for the Ormond-Daytona meet and also entered in the preliminary speed contest for the Gordon Bennett cup race.

WOMAN LIVED ON SCANTY DIET

NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 10.—Elizabeth Knobbs of this city lived for a week on one herring and a five-cent loaf of bread was the testimony brought out in the course of the Knobbs will contest, which is on before Judge Braley in the Supreme Court here.

Elizabeth Knobbs was a well-to-do and widely-known colored woman. The amount at issue is not very large. The will is contested by heirs-at-law, who allege that it was not properly drawn and that, in addition, the testatrix was not of sound and disposing mind when she executed the document.

Dr. Edward P. Clisby testified that Miss Knobbs once told him that a herring and a loaf of bread were her sole sustenance for a week.

"DEMOCRATIC REORGANIZATION ON A BASIS OF TRUE DEMOCRACY."

I HAVE no knowledge of any meeting between Mr. Watson, Mr. Bryan and myself. I think the Democratic party will reorganize itself on a basis of true Democracy, eliminating the Wall street influence that proved so disastrous in this campaign, and I as a loyal Democrat will be very happy to see that done. I am always ready to contribute my own services, and those of my papers, to the democracy for reorganization or any other purpose, if they shall be required.

I shall be glad to work with all loyal Democrats for the success of Democratic principles, but I think the loyal Democrats are quite capable of choosing their own leaders, and I imagine this point will now be conceded by those who endeavored to force leaders upon them.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

VOTE OF ORGANIZED LABOR ELECTED DOUGLAS

Veto of Overtime Bill Turned Thousands of Ballots to Douglas and Decided the Victory.

Labor's part in the election of William L. Douglas as Governor of Massachusetts, against seemingly overwhelming Republican odds, furnishes the text of the comment of party leaders to-day on the result. Democrats and Republicans alike are agreed that the antagonism of the organized labor element in the State, which Governor Bates had incurred by his veto of the overtime bill, and his attitude on other matters of vital importance to trade unions, brought about his defeat.

Labor leaders throughout the State are jubilant over the result. They do not hesitate to proclaim the share labor played in the election of Douglas, and declare it has been conclusively demonstrated that trade unions are now a factor to be reckoned with in politics. The fact that the unions were able to convert a large Republican majority into a Democratic victory indicates that the control of the State lies in their hands.

In Fall River, New Bedford, Lowell and other manufacturing centres, where Governor-elect Douglas made such great gains, the labor leaders are strong in their declaration that it was the labor vote which defeated Bates.

Guild's Plurality 32,623.

Although the official returns of the vote for State officers have not been compiled yet, it is certain that the Republican candidates, with the exception of Curtis Guild, Jr., for Lieutenant-Governor, will have pluralities ranging about 50,000.

John C. Crosby, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, received several thousand Republican votes, and kept Mr. Guild's plurality down to 32,623. This was not due, it is believed, to unpopularity chargeable to Mr. Guild, but to the friendly feeling of the voters to Mr. Crosby and to their desire that Governor-Elect Douglas should have an executive lieutenant of his own party.

Returns from only 237 cities and towns in Massachusetts outside of Boston have been compiled. The tabulations are as follows:

GOVERNOR.
Bates	92,321
Douglas	88,762
Adams	4,402
Berry	765
Cobb	1,343
LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.
Guild	98,904
Crosby	66,271
SECRETARY.
Olin	102,564
Little	52,653
TREASURER.
Chapin	103,120
Codman	52,996
AUDITOR.
Turner	101,060
Tetrault	51,163
ATTORNEY GENERAL.
Parker	103,267
Leahy	51,707

Changes in the Legislature.

There are a number of changes in the Legislature, and the Republicans gain materially in both branches. In the House of 1905 there will be about 170 Republicans as against 152 in the House of 1904. The one Socialist member of 1904 is not returned, and there will be only two Republican Independents, as against three last year.

In the Senate the Democrats lost two and the Republicans gain two, but practically no gain but one, as the senator from the Cape district is a Republican Independent elected on a Citizens' ticket.

The one Democratic member of the Governor's Council, Michael J. Sullivan, of Boston, is re-elected, but will continue to be the only Democratic councillor.

DOUGLAS TO FIGHT FOR COMMISSION ON STATE INDUSTRIES

Special to the Boston American.

BROCKTON, Nov. 10.—Governor-elect Douglas is going to fight for a commission to look into the industrial needs of Massachusetts after he assumes office. He will adhere to his plan of working for reciprocity with Canada and revision of tariff laws. He wants a referendum of the question submitted to the voters of the State.

"As to further plans," he said, "it would be useless and unbecoming for me to talk about them before I am inaugurated. I do not care to say to what I ascribe my election."

When asked, "Are you in sympathy with William Jennings Bryan and a radical Democracy?" Mr. Douglas replied:

"It is a matter I cannot discuss."

KICK AND SCREAM

Baby's Awful Suffering from Eczema.

Could Not Hold Her. She Tore Her Face and Arms.

Cuticura Saved Her Life, So Mother Says.

"When my little girl was six months old, she had eczema. We had used cold creams and all kinds of remedies, but nothing did her any good. In fact, she kept getting worse. I used to wrap her hands up, and when I would dress her, I had to put her on the table for I could not hold her. She would kick and scream, and when she could, would tear her face. Her head, arms almost to pieces. I used four boxes of Cuticura Ointment, two cakes of Cuticura Soap, and gave her the Cuticura Resolvent, and she was cured, and I see no traces of the humour left. I can truthfully say that they have saved her life, and any one suffering as she did, I should advise them to give Cuticura a fair trial." MRS. J. A. CONRAD, Lisbon, N. H., Feb. 7, 1903.

Five years later, viz., Feb. 23, 1903, Mrs. Conrad writes:

"It is with pleasure that I can inform you that the cure has been permanent as it is now six years since she was cured, and I have had no return of the disease since, and I have advised a lot of friends to use the Cuticura Remedies in all cases of skin trouble."

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure and purest of emollients, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent. MUST FIGHT TRUSTS SAYS JUDGE PARKER

ESOPUS, N. Y., Nov. 10.—In his postelection statement Judge Parker, who has been offered two law partnerships, announces that he will never again be a candidate for public office, and warns the people that the great moral question which they must decide is whether the trusts will be permitted to influence the elections and legislation of the future by their contributions.

The statement, which is addressed "To the Democracy of the Nation," is in part as follows:

"Deeply as I regretted leaving the bench at the time of the last campaign, owing to the wheeling demand, I do not lament it. I thoroughly am glad to-day. In the light of my present information I am now even more confident that I did right.

Will Serve the Party.

"I shall never seek a nomination for public office, but I shall to the best of my ability serve the party that has honored me, and through the party serve my country.

"The party has to-day the duty of making a great mistake. Before long the people will realize that the tariff-fed trusts and illegal combinations are absorbing the wealth of the nation.

"Then they will wish to throw off these leeches, but the Republican party will not aid them to do it, for its leaders appreciate too well the uses to which the moneys of the trusts can be put in political campaigns.

"When that time comes, and come it will, the people will turn to the Democratic party for relief, and the party should be ready—ready with an organization of patriotic citizens in every electoral district, who are willing to work for the love of the cause—an organization supported by as many town, city, county and State officers as we are able to elect in the meantime.

Great Moral Question.

"If we would help the people; if we would furnish an organization through which they may be relieved of a party that has grown so corrupt that it will only use power to enter into partnership with trusts to secure moneys for elections of the past and begin all the old jobbery, wherever it may be needed to found and effective organization. And we must not be misled by false issues, through the press and from the platform, against the people's cause, or may be overwhelmed.

"We never had a home to them, at other than election times, the fact that money contributed to the Republican party by the trusts is not only dishonest money, but the trusts is not only dishonest money, but it is given that they may, without disturbance, make a much larger sum from the people.

"In the presence of a defeat that would furnish an opportunity, were it take away otherwise it possessed me, I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion the greatest issue in question which now confronts us is, shall the trusts and corporations be allowed to continue from contributing money to control or to aid in controlling elections?

"Such service as I can render in that or any other direction will be gladly rendered.

"And I beg the co-operation as a fellow worker of every Democrat in the country."

LABOR DEFEATED DEMOCRATS IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Labor union leaders declare that the failure of Tammany leaders to make good their promise to organized labor this year contributed largely to Democratic defeat in this State.

James J. Daly, a leader in the Building Trades' Alliance, said:

"Many months before election I held a conference with Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy and asked the latter to use his influence to end the lockout in the building trades. Murphy said at my conference with Mr. Murphy I heard nothing from him. Non-union steam fitters were employed in the squabble and nothing was done about it. The matter came before all of the unions in New York.

"Senator McCarren's refusal to employ union men helped bring about his downfall."

COLORADO CLOSE, BUT ADAMS SEEMS TO BE THE VICTOR

DENVER, Col., Nov. 10.—Scratched ballots are posting a different aspect on the governorship in Colorado. The result remains debatable, with chances favoring Adams. The Republicans claim that Governor Peabody has been reelected by from 5,000 to 10,000 plurality. The election of Alva Adams is claimed by the Democrats by a plurality approximating 10,000. John Shafroth, Democratic nominee for Congressman-at-large, may have beaten Franklin E. Brooks, the present incumbent. Miss Helen L. Grenfell, Democratic nominee for superintendent of public instruction, may have been elected also. The remainder of the Republican State ticket has been elected by pluralities averaging around 10,000. The Legislature will be Republican.

Teller County is Republican by 900, San Miguel by 500 and Ouray by 200. These are the counties in which strikes were followed by the use of the military forces of the State during the last two years. A plurality for Peabody or Adams of less than 5,000 means a contest. Already steps have been taken by the Republicans to contest the result in behalf of Governor Peabody, if the final figures show the small plurality against him, on the ground of fraud in the Democratic counties

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

JACK O'BRIEN ALMOST PUT OUT BY WILLIE

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—John Willis of Chicago gave Jack O'Brien the battle of his life in the windup at the National Athletic Club. Willie repeatedly had his man going and only O'Brien's ring generalship saved him. Willie had trained well for the contest.

It was evident after the middle of the first round that Willie proposed to wade in and to take all chances on what O'Brien might send out with the hope of getting his blows home. Willie took punch after punch about the face, but with the exception of a swelling over the right eye he did not appear much the worse for the bout.

Willie's Wind Poor.

The trouble with him was with his wind. At the end of each round he seemed to lose a bit of both his steam and power, while O'Brien appeared to get better toward the end of the rounds, whether he was getting the worst of it or not. But invariably at the beginning of rounds Willie came up strong, the minutes' resting him much more good than it did O'Brien. On two different occasions during the bout O'Brien inadvertently hit Willie while the latter was still on the mat, but it was so evidently unintentional that Referee McGuigan let it go. Neither Willie nor his seconds registered any kick.

At the beginning of the first round Willie took the initiative, a straight left for the face, which fell short. His next attempt was a swing, which fell around O'Brien's neck. O'Brien kept working away toward the jaw, but Willie paid no attention to the punches, his one object being O'Brien's wind.

Jack Changes Tactics.

They had hardly started in for the second round when Willie again landed his terrible left on O'Brien's body. O'Brien seeing that he could not afford to swap punch for punch with his stronger opponent brought cleverness into play.

The third was notably fast. Willie, as soon as he jumped from his chair, rushed O'Brien. The onslaught was so furious that there was no denying it. O'Brien, resorting to all his cleverness afoot, sought to stall it, but all to no purpose.

Pace Begins to Tell.

Beginning with the fourth round the pace set by the men began to show on both. O'Brien showed up to particular advantage in the fourth and fifth and dropped Willie at the end of the fifth with a right-hand counter. In fact at the end of that round it looked as though Jack was going to reverse the decision which Willie had secured in the first three rounds.

It may have been that Willie was playing foxy, for when he came up for the sixth round he appeared to be as fresh as when he started in, and landed some fearful punches. It was a great bout, O'Brien receiving more punishment than he ever did before in this city.

M'GOVERN MAY MEET BRITT IN SLOWTOWN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—McGovern and Britt may meet in the ring at Philadelphia before long.

James E. Britt, of San Francisco, wired to-day that he might come East within a few weeks and take on all the lightweights that he could find before his Christmas date with "Corbett" comes around. McGovern has been anxious to look up with the Californian, and recently put up $2,500 as a forfeit to bind the match.

There is a hitch, though, on the weight question. Terry wants it 130 ringside, while Britt will not fight now unless it is 133 ringside. If he comes, however, the problem might be solved and one of the fastest six-round bouts of the year would result.

James is a champion now, and Terry would like very much to get a slam at his crown.

YALE GETS MANY STAR FOOTBALL PLAYERS FROM BAY STATE.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10.—Right out of the teeth of Fair Harvard Yale has taken some of the best football players for her football eleven this year. First and foremost is Sammy Morse, who promises to be Yale's most dashing halfback this season. His father is a Boston lawyer, his grandfather, for whom he was named, Samuel F. B. Morse invented the telegraph while he was a Yale professor. Morse is a brother of the famous old Dartmouth halfback.

Carl Flanders, Yale's 200-pound guard, hails from Boston, and has been a Yale substitute for three years. His father is a prominent railroad man in the Hub. Jim Quill, Yale's substitute halfback, formerly played on the Tufts team. He has lost considerable weight while in training this Fall, and is not putting up his best game just now. Frank McCoy, the old Amherst halfback, comes from Northampton, Mass.

"Chet" Neal, who is Yale's right end, has resided in Worcester. He made the Yale eleven by accident the past Fall. He was appointed head coach for the Yale freshman eleven, as it was believed that a lame knee would permanently prevent his playing football. After the season had been in progress two or three weeks, he was called over to the varsity gridiron one day and was given right end. He showed the best form of any of the men attempted there, and has been in the position ever since. Incidentally, his knee has not been hurt during the season.

In spite of the fact that Harvard is practically in a suburb of Boston, Yale always has a lot of good men from that city. Malcolm Farmer, Yale's star plunging fullback of last season, was formerly of Boston. Phil Morse, of Newton, has been a Yale substitute all the season, but has just dropped out of the race. L. H. Andrews, the former Newton High School guard, is on the Yale second team, but is not eligible for the varsity because of trouble in his studies this Fall. He will be a Yale star next year.

Walter Negley Stillman, the Yale substitute end and quarter till three weeks ago, lives in Brookline, and his brother, Alfred Stillman, is the old Harvard pitcher and fullback. Stillman would be on the Yale eleven this Fall had not a broken ankle sent him back to citizens' clothes three weeks ago. He is now head coach of the Yale freshmen, superseding "Chet" Neal.

HARVARD KICKERS SHOW UP POORLY

By ROBERT P. KERNAN,
Captain of Harvard 1902 Eleven.

Harvard's practice was a distinct disappointment in many ways. True, the varsity scored several times against the scrub, but it took them nearly three-quarters of an hour of steady playing to make these touchdowns.

The afternoon was devoted to the actual lineup, there being no individual coaching; in fact, very little preliminary practice of any description. The men run through a few signals, then time was called for the commencement of the game.

Varsity on the Offense.

The varsity was called upon to play practically nothing but an offensive game. On a few occasions the scrub gained possession of the ball, but it was recovered immediately by the regulars. The coaches believed firmly that, after two days' rest, followed by one day of comparatively light work and with the Yale game near at hand to inspire the men to a supreme effort, the first team, when called upon, would respond with an irresistible dash. So they were given the ball and asked for their best, but the expected response failed to materialize.

The players lacked determination and fight, consequently the attack did not have the required speed, force and unity.

Naturally, by this time of the year, the men have become thoroughly familiar with the plays and individual assignments, so the offense ran smoothly, this being the sole reason that the varsity made repeated gains against the second eleven.

In the line there was some very good individual blocking. Brill, Squires and Schoenfuss were particularly effective in this work, opening holes and protecting plays very effectively.

Meier O. K. Again.

Meier has recovered from his injury of last Saturday and played at right tackle during the greater part of the scrimmage. Derby, who replaced him, displayed his characteristic dash and aggressiveness. If this player's spirit could be instilled into the other members of the team they would be invincible.

Montgomery and Randall were seen at the ends, Montgomery playing the more effective game on the offense. Randall ran down the field and recovered a muffed punt once, also dropped on the ball when it was fumbled in a scrimmage, in fact, he was ever awake and following the play closely during the entire game.

Sturr and Noyes played well at quarterback, the former getting off good plays and handling the ball especially well.

The backfield combination, consisting of Mills, Sperry and Wendell, were too slow invariably. Sperry played better than the others, but must show vast improvement in some respects, particularly in starting more quickly.

Holy Cross:

Good Drubbing Expected Saturday.

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, Nov. 10.—With the exception of a good drubbing next Saturday, the Holy Cross coaches are making the best of their hard luck and striving to find with what combination of positions the rank abilities of players work best. In the hardest trials only the men best protected by their beef are tried, while the lighter and more valuable ends are kept out of danger.

Injuries have worked havoc with the Worcester eleven and as it is now, many of the second men have been brought up to the firing line. Naughton has been played at tackle and given a good exhibition there. His offensive work is strong while a little improvement in defense will make him a valuable man. Murphy is another tackle whom necessity has given a playing chance.

Cleo O'Donnell has been placed at fullback, while McManus is recovering from a bruised leg. O'Donnell's work is of a high order, both on defense and offense, the only trouble being a lack of beef. He may be able to move up to the line by Saturday if McManus recovers from his injury.

Carney and O'Donnell watched the work from the lines, but it is expected that these men will be ready for Harvard. Carrigan and McCarthy do not expect to leave the infirmary for some time. The absence of these strong players reduces whatever hope the Worcester boys may have had to make the lone tally they have made on other teams.

UNIONS HAVE SHOWY BOUTS

Some glimmering bouts are listed at the Union A. C., Cambridge, to-night and the management has exerted itself to give the members a fine thing in the boxing line.

Manager Boyle says that applications for membership should be made to him before 6 o'clock.

Rouse O'Brien of South Boston and Emergency Kelly are carded for the main bout of ten rounds and there is a lot of bad feeling between the boys that will be the cause of letting themselves out a few extra pegs.

Kid Wright and Tommy English will try it again. This time Wright is in shape and promises to make it interesting for the Cambridge aspirant for high honors.

Johnny Ahern of South Boston and Jack Flavin of Cambridge make up another pair that keep the fans on edge.

"VET" PRINCE BACK HOME

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Jack Prince, the veteran bicycle rider, now builder of cement cycle race tracks, and Gussie Lawson, a pace following cyclist, arrived in this city from Europe to-day. Prince has been touring through Germany, France and England to size up the possibilities of profitably building coliseum race tracks abroad. "If I can interest European capital I will build tracks abroad," says Prince.

DOES FOXY KID M'COY FEAR TO MEET TWIN SULLIVAN?

Special to the Boston American.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Kid McCoy is now said to have backed water in his return match with Jack ("Twin") Sullivan, and there is likely to be trouble of various forms when Sullivan, who is in Chicago, reaches Los Angeles to hold the Tony Hoosier to his contract to fight November 24.

Several telegrams that have passed between McCoy and parties in the East have led up to the conclusion that the Kid fears a rendition of the pummeling Twin gave him in their former meeting. While the Hoosier laid out the decision, he also got a beating that instilled into him the deepest sort of admiration for the husky Boston boy's prowess. This admiration, as the time for the second battle between the two draws near, has ripened into a fear that he will end his fighting career ingloriously by beaten by the coming middleweight star, and rather than take the chance he is trying to get some one else to take Sullivan's place.

An offer has been made to John Wilie to sail out toward the coast in time to go on with the "Kid" the first week of the Ascot racing meet. It is said that even clever Jack O'Brien would be more preferable to McCoy than Sullivan, inasmuch as O'Brien's punch is not so deadly as the "Twin's." To the big fellow's credit in the game Sullivan has proved a tartar, and the time is not far distant, according to the experts, when the New England lad will be flying champion ship colors.

That McCoy should now try to crawl out of his match with the hard hitting and rugged "Twin" is not at all surprising to those who know the "Kid" style. He took on Sullivan on easy pegs and for easy money. The appearance of the big horse that the return match would surely bring are not sufficient even to balance the avaricious "Kid" to risk his reputation again. Hence it is that Sullivan is loaded up with anger, which will be discharged in various directions, but particularly at McCoy, when he reaches Los Angeles. The New England boy will leave either to-night or to-morrow for the coast.

E. H. S. TO PLAY WALTHAM

WALTHAM, Nov. 10.—Waltham High will play the English High team of Boston in this city one week from the coming Thursday. The Watch City lads are anxious to trim a Boston eleven, and they will go after their rivals from the tap of the gong.

MELLODY-RYAN BOUT TROUBLE

Special to the Boston American.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—All kinds of trouble has followed in the wake of the Honey Mellody—Buddy Ryan bout next Monday night at the Harlem A. C. The bout was switched over from the Nine Island Club, and now there is a hitch on the referee, and the club will probably rule over the managers of the men in the selection.

Ryan has two decisions over Mellody, the first by a small margin and the second on a foul.

A counter attraction the same night will be given by the Nine Island Club, which has matched Mike Schreck and John Willie, and by so doing starts a war between the Windy City clubs that may result in closing them up.

Manager Jack Mooney has received an offer to match Mellody with Martin Duffy at Lansing, Mich., early in December.

Mellody's bout with Barney Furey at the West End Club to-night in St. Louis was declared off by the former.

BROWN DANGEROUS FOR DARTMOUTH

There will be a special excursion of Brown students from Providence on November 19 to witness the Brown-Dartmouth game. It is expected that 1,200 students will come up on trains.

Things are shaping themselves so that Dartmouth will probably not be such an overwhelming favorite as she promised to be early in the season and it may be that Brown can and will not be able to get the juicy odds they expected.

In the first place the fact has almost been lost sight of that Brown so arranged her schedule that she would have plenty of time to prepare in the right way for Dartmouth. All her hard games were the early part of early. Pennsylvania was an exception and Yale was tackled two weeks before the Dartmouth date. Harvard was eliminated because Brown did not want another hard game.

On the other hand Dartmouth, after the tough game with Harvard last Saturday finds herself confronting the strong Amherst eleven and must play the Massachusetts team next Saturday. This will doubtless be a hard nut for the Green and White to crack and it may be that unlooked for injuries will result.

It is reported that Captain Knibbs of Dartmouth, who was laid out in the Harvard game, will not be able to play again this year. Thus Dartmouth has all the worst of it just now, while it is comparatively easy sailing for Brown.

HOPPE IN RARE FORM.

Great interest is being manifested in the coming championship billiard tourney, which will open at the Hub parlors November 14, between William Caren of Chicago and Willie Hoppe. The latter is in rare form and expects to trim the Windy City champ.

CHOYNSKI TO BOX WILLIAMS

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Jack Williams, the light heavyweight of Philadelphia, and Joe Choynski have been matched to meet for six rounds at catch weights on November 16 before the Gentlemen's Boxing Club, of Philadelphia, for the latter's initial show.

Choynski has been sidestepping the boxing game for the past year, having turned down a chance to clash with Jack O'Brien, of Philadelphia, for a bout at St. Louis last week. Sports are wondering if he means to get in the ring again or not.

YALE'S HARD WORK IS OVER TO-DAY

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 10.—Yale's polishing up for the Princeton Tigers is over, and the drill this afternoon behind closed gates marked the last of anything like a scrimmage line till after the Tigers are faced in their tally. The order given for practice to-day was for a sharp and short drill in secret and to-morrow for a short signal drill before the graduate coaches at their annual meeting with Princeton.

With the scenes of relief the coaches have seen Ralph Bloomer, the famous oval carrier, get through with the trying out of the past two days which was necessary to train him up to playing form, without bruising again his injured shoulder. He will be played at left tackle, his old position, it is now certain.

Kilpatrick will probably get a chance for a part of both the Harvard and the Princeton games, as Bloomer has been out of the game for ten days and has not yet gained endurance enough to stand the rig during the entire halves as he will be called upon to go through next Saturday.

Tom Shevlin has been handled with the greatest care the past week. He has not been in uniform at all since he was hurt last Saturday, and he, like Bloomer, is underrained and may not be able to play more than thirty-five minute halves next Saturday. The selection of a substitute for Shevlin will be still open, although indications are that Hare, who got into the Harvard game two years ago, is the leading aspirant for the place.

Talk that Shevlin will be unable to line up Saturday has no foundation, for Trainer Murphy says that he will have the star end in splendid form, except for the strains of a slight bruise. Shevlin said to-day: "I probably won't know that there is anything the matter with my leg after I have been playing three minutes."

Yale men are very blunt betting till they are sure that their eleven will round into fit shape, and wagers have therefore been very scarce here on the result of the game Saturday.

GARDNER WILL FACE REILLY

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—George Gardner, the ex-light heavyweight champion, and Tommy Reilly, of Butte, Mont., have been matched to mix matters for twenty rounds at catchweights before a club in Los Angeles, Cal., during the last week in this month. Reilly is known as the "boiler plate man" for his ability to stand punishment, and Gardner will have his hands full when they clash.

LATIN SCHOOL'S TEAM.

Four old players answered the call of Captain Allen for candidates for the Boston Latin School basketball team. Fifteen boys are trying for positions, and the prospects are bright. Manager Chandler has arranged the first game for December 9 with Chauncy Hall.

FIGHT ON FIRE ESCAPES; THREE DEAD IN FLAMES

Women and Children Struggle for Life in New York Tenement Blaze.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Three were burned to death—a man and two women—in a fire which early to-day swept through a flat house at No. 140 East Ninety-seventh street.

A score of women and twice as many children were snatched from death by firemen, who stopped a struggle for life on the congested fire escapes by dropping the frantic women and children into life nets stretched below.

That many were not killed was due to the heroic work of both firemen and police. While the policemen restrained the hysterical women and children from leaping or crowding over one another over the narrow fire ledges, the firemen scaled the five-story building with their ladders and passed the tenants to the street.

When the fire escapes became so congested that death to many threatened in the struggle for life, the firemen set their nets and dropped the women and children from the second and third stories to safety.

BOY CAUGHT IN ELEVATOR AND KILLED

Tried to Step on Board While Car Was Moving and Was Dragged to Death.

John Oscar Wilkinson, a seventeen-year-old boy employed by the Murray & Emery Co., printers and bookbinders, at No. 287 Atlantic avenue, was instantly killed today by being caught in an elevator.

Wilkinson, who lived at No. 428 Main street, Charlestown, was employed as an errand boy by the Murray & Emery Co. for the first time yesterday. He was on the second floor of the building to-day, and as the elevator came up he tried to step on board while it was moving.

His foot was caught between the elevator and the wall of the shaft, and in an instant his body was dragged into the narrow space. The elevator kept on to the third story, crushing the boy's body and killing him instantly.

Young Wilkinson leaves a mother and three sisters. His father, John F. Wilkinson, a prominent builder of Lawrence, died nine years ago to-day.

BELLE SUES FOR SERVICE AT WASH TUB

Causes Sensation by Action for $4,000 Against Divorced Husband's Mother.

The suit for $4,000 brought by Mrs. Abbie Day-Chandler of Brockton against her former mother-in-law, Mrs. Caroline A. Chandler of Nashua, N. H., for alleged services rendered, and now being heard before Judge Pike and jury in the Hillsboro County (N. H.) Superior Court, brought out testimony to-day by Mrs. Day-Chandler that she waited on her former mother-in-law for five years, did her washing, manicured her hands and feet, dressed her hair and generally acted in the double capacity of trained nurse and lady's maid.

The fact that the daughter-in-law had several thousand dollars when she married, and that all parties in the suit are people of high social standing in Nashua, made the trial of great interest to New Hampshire people. The continued hearing to-day is being attended by people representing some of the most prominent families in the State.

Four-Cornered Divorce Tangle.

There is a four-cornered divorce subsequence connected with the suit. Mrs. Day-Chandler was a Miss Abbie Day of Nashua, N. H. Dispatches from Nashua to the BOSTON AMERICAN say she married Charles Chandler of Nashua, son of Mrs. Caroline Chandler, the defendant in the present suit. Mrs. Day Chandler was worth about $50,000 when she married, but the money was spent after her marriage. She and her husband went in 1899 to live with Mrs. Caroline Chandler, the mother-in-law. They lived there for five years, the period in which the younger Mrs. Chandler alleges she did this menial work for her mother-in-law. In 1901 Chandler filed a libel for divorce. His wife filed a cross-libel. The husband's libel was thrown out and the wife secured a decree.

She named in her libel her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Moses Day of Nashua. The latter was the wife of Mrs. Chandler's brother. After the Chandler divorce Charles Moses Day secured a divorce. Mrs. Day eventually married Charles Chandler and Day himself later married a second wife. Then three out of the four parties in the double divorce married again.

Alone Refrained From Marrying.

Mrs. Day-Chandler alone refrained from marrying again. Since her libel Nashua went to Worcester, then to Brockton, and now has brought suit against her former mother-in-law.

Mrs. Day-Chandler, the plaintiff from Brockton, has Mayor Doyle and Judge Charles W. Hoyt as counsel. Mrs. Caroline Chandler, the mother-in-law has Captain Henry B. Atherton to represent her interests.

Mrs. Day-Chandler told the court to-day of her claim for payment from her mother-in-law. The defence will probably begin this afternoon.

CHAUFFEURS TO BE UNIONIZED

Organizers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters have commenced the work of organizing the chauffeurs in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. Several hundred chauffeurs in Boston already have expressed their willingness to join the Brotherhood and sign the charter list of the new union.

So rapidly are automobiles taking the places of horse-drawn vehicles in the delivery service of large business houses and in the trucking business that the teamsters, for their own safety, realize that the organization of the chauffeurs is necessary.

The new union, when formed, will be affiliated with General Team Drivers' Union No. 25, which includes the expressmen and cab drivers.

ODELL'S BETS ON ELECTION NET $300,000

E. P. Harriman Pulls Out $200,000, and A. A. Houseman, as Broker, $600,000.

BIGGEST WINNINGS.

Governor Odell, $300,000.
E. P. Harriman, $200,000.
M. Mendham (as broker), $150,000.
A. A. Houseman (as broker), $600,000.
J. J. Judge (as broker), $200,000.

BIGGEST LOSSES.

August Belmont, $250,000.
J. M. Levy, $100,000.
Patrick McCarren, $50,000.
Senator Reynolds, $75,000.
George Considine (as broker) $25,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Governor Odell won fully $300,000 in election bets on the State campaign. He collected the money yesterday of brokers who handled part of the money and who were busy collecting the money to-day.

From the same source it was learned that E. H. Harriman won more than $200,000 on Hughes, and Mr. rice Mendham the broker $150,000.

August Belmont was reputed to be the biggest loser, having placed $250,000 on Parker and Herrick, the State through E. C. Potter & Co.

Former Congressman J. M. Levy lost $100,000 on Herrick, and Senator Reynolds lost $75,000.

Senator McCarren lost fully $50,000, but this was said to be a hedge on stocks in which he won much money. Of this amount $20,000 was said to have been lost to Tim Woodruff.

The slaughter of Democrats was all the more extensive as long odds up to the general result tempted them to place money that way in combination with what they considered the sure bet of 2 to 1 on Herrick in the State.

WOMAN BABE SLAYER TO DIE

Special Cable to Boston American.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The sensational trial of Elizabeth Wiese, of Hamburg, who was accused of having murdered a large number of babies confided to her by their parents, has come to a sudden and unexpected end. The testimony against the accused was so strong that although she, until the very last, denied her guilt, the prosecution ended its course without taking more than half of the witnesses who had been called from all parts of the country, and the lawyer for the defence gave up in face of the overwhelming evidence and the accused was sentenced to death.

Married to Mystery

Boston American's Thrilling Story of Present-day Life in Boston

Chapter lxxxvi.—Continued.

HE closed his hands before him and his fingers clenched together. There was something terribly reminiscent to Esther in the gesture.

"I want to understand," she said, after a moment, as patiently as she could. Perhaps in time—when he had recovered his self-possession—he would tell her more. "All you have heard is in connection with Adderley?"

"Yes—with Adderley—with the Borrodaile family—with myself. All that you know is correct. But it is nothing—nothing to the underlying horror. It is that which I may not—dare not speak even to you. Do not question me, Esther." He put her gently from him and rose to his feet. He stepped across to the fireplace and looked at the clock. "See," he said, "it is after one. You must go to rest. In the morning we will consider how to shape our lives. Kiss me, darling, and go." He stretched out his arms to her. She ran to him and he folded her in a long, passionate embrace.

"But you, Harold, you," she whispered when at last he released her, "you need rest even more than I."

"There is no more rest for me in this world," he answered, with choking voice. "The drink kills," he muttered, "the drink kills."

"Then for her sake," cried Esther, seizing her opportunity, "for her sake, Harold, do not try to drown your troubles in alcohol, as you did last night. Struggle against that temptation as you did against the desire to kill yourself. It is the same thing, though infinitely more degrading."

She thought her words had carried weight, for Harold did not drink that night. He retired early to a room adjoining her own, and all night long she listened to his footsteps as they tramped ceaselessly, restlessly, backward and forward. There was no sleep for him and none for her.

The next day Harold went for Grimstead and the two men remained closeted all the morning in the study. In the afternoon her husband came to her and said that he must be absent for twenty-four hours. She divined that he was going to Adderley. That night she slept, worn out by sheer physical fatigue.

Chapter lxxxvii.

Harold Seeks Oblivion.

"THE drink kills." Harold had deliberately taken to drink with two objects—the first to kill remembrance, the second to kill himself. Protest was useless; she had tried it and failed. Esther had prayed for a few weeks' happiness, days, even hours—there could not be this—and it was only possible to forget in one way. Struggle as a night seem, it was for Esther's sake that he had decided to exclude love, and he was strong enough, in spite of all temptation, to abide by his decision.

"You are doing this for me," she cried, "of love for me. I can see behind the mask. You are hard, though you long to take me in your arms and kiss my tears away. Harold, no matter to-morrow—give me to-day, and let us be all in all to each other."

It was decided that they should not part, at any rate not for a time. The world must not know that the Borrodaile curse had fallen upon the present generation.

"It would kill mother," groaned Harold, "to know that all she has striven for has been of no avail. My poor mother, she is standing now upon the brink of the grave. Let her die under the impression that the curse has been removed from us."

When Harold returned he had the uncertain step and the thick utterance of a man who had been drinking heavily. He told her nothing of what he had been doing, and she did not question him. A feeling of disgust was taking possession of her. He revealed her presence to him when he struggle her love. Had he but taken her in his arms and let her suffer with him, even though he did not trust her with the secret, how willingly she would have shared his burden.

Yet in her heart she knew that Harold desired her love.

They left Boston the next day for Italy. The villa they took was of true Italian architecture and wholly Italian in its decorations. Behind it, on the hillside, stretched a wild garden, in which Esther loved to wander.

And so the days had passed—for Esther in loneliness and sorrow.

And now she knew the truth. "The drink kills." Harold had not taken to drink merely to kill torturing thought; it was a deliberate design to take his own life. He was poisoning himself slowly.

What was she to do? A wife, yet no wife—and for the second time.

Mrs. Borradaile had endured probably much of what she, Esther, was now enduring. Yet Harold's father had never sought to drown his sorrows in drink, or Esther had never heard of such a thing.

At last she wrote to Lilian and begged her to come to Italy. "I am in trouble"—so Esther wrote—"and I want you. You promised to be my friend for good or ill. Come to me, Lilian, in my evil hour."

Chapter lxxxviii.

A Friend in Need.

"LILIAN—Thank God you have come!" It was with these words that Esther ran forward to greet her when Lilian arrived. "I think I should have died if I had been left any longer to my own devices. I have suffered more than words can tell." Her looks did not belie the statement.

Later in the afternoon, upon the terrace overlooking the peaceful waters of the lake, Esther told her story, and Lilian took her friend in her arms and kissed and comforted her as best she could. For the first time since the day of her marriage Esther felt a gleam of hope.

"What can I do, Lilian?" she asked. "I want you to give me your advice. It is impossible to live as we have been living."

"He has borne the revelation of the mystery very badly," Lilian said at last. "I have an impression that in other cases it has been the same, though talking to drink is a new manifestation. Grimstead has told me that for a short while after his marriage Harold's father was affected by homicidal mania; he shut himself up—just as Harold has done—and would see no one. But after awhile he obtained a certain mastery over himself and became a reasonable man again—though silent and morose."

"And you think," said Esther, "that it will be the same with Harold?"

"It is the best we can hope for," replied Lilian. "I am afraid it is very poor consolation that I'm giving you, Esther, but things have to be faced as they are."

GERTRUDE'S LITTLE BROTHER

1—JACK HUGGARD—Say, Oliver, will you go down to the village and get me a box of candy? If you will I'll give you fifty cents for yourself!
OLIVER—Gee! You bet I will.
2—GERTRUDE—Oh, Jack, you are a sly fox!
JACK HUGGARD—Ah, dearest, to be alone with you for one hour is worth many times fifty cents.
3—JACK HUGGARD—And now that we are alone—
OLIVER—Oh, Mr. Huggard; I'm going to be one of them kings of finance! You and Gertrude sit down and I'll tell you how sharp I am.
4—OLIVER—Why, I gave the coachman's boy a quarter to go down and get that candy; so, you see, I can sit here, where it is nice and warm, and still be in a quarter. Oh, I am a sharp one.

Health and Beauty

DEAR MISS LEHR:

Will you kindly repeat the recipe given by you for the restoration of the hair to its original color by the use of walnuts, etc.? E. R.

I GLADLY repeat for your benefit the formula you request, though it was printed in this column but a short time ago. It is as follows:

Four ounces of walnut skins, beaten to a pulp, to which is added sixteen ounces of pure alcohol. Let it digest for a week or longer, with occasional agitation, then decant, and, if necessary, filter. It must be kept in a cool place. The fingers should be smeared with vaseline before using it, to prevent the stain being fixed.

While sometimes used as a dye, it is also believed to have real virtue in restoring the color, and it is perfectly harmless, though necessarily, it stains badly.

DEAR MISS LEHR:

I wish you would kindly give me a good, harmless remedy that will remove freckles. M. P.

THE best think I know of for whitening the skin and bleaching freckles is the simple mercurial lotion made as follows:

Dissolve by agitation ten grains of corrosive sublimate in a half-pint each of distilled water and pure rose water. If distilled water is not used, add six grains of pure sal ammoniac to prevent decomposition. When using it, a small quantity should be poured from the bottle into a clean saucer and applied with a bit of linen. Never wet it at the mouth of the bottle, as the solution will quickly decompose if this common practice be followed. Contact with metals will also spoil it, and, as it is an active poison, the bottle should be so marked in red ink and placed out of the reach of children. No four used be felt toward its external use, as it is absolutely harmless. The sublimate should be in pure crystals, and the addition of an ounce of glycerin—omitting the same quantity of distilled water—makes it very efficacious and healing in all cases of itching or irritation.

BY THE STENOGRAPHER

CUPID WORKS STRANGE MIRACLES IN POOR HUMAN NATURE, BOTH AMONG OLD AND YOUNG

"I have seen the hair of a widow turn from gray to black in a single day."

"I NOTICE," said the Stenographer, "that Cupid is about to put all our modern 'healers' out of business."

"How's that?" asked the Bookkeeper.

"He's opening up shop as a miracle worker," responded the Stenographer. "Here's the case of a woman in North Carolina who had been an invalid and bed-ridden, unable to move for years. Along comes a man who pops the question to her, and tells her that he is willing to marry her if she will walk up the church aisle with him, whereupon the lady springs from her couch and fairly skips and dances to the altar."

"Love's a great rejuvenator," observed the Bookkeeper. "I've ever observe that when a widower begins to take notice again he always looks as if he had just come out of a rest cure, and had sloughed off anywhere from ten to fifteen years of age."

"Yep," answered the Stenographer; "the same thing happens with women. I've seen the hair of a widow turn from gray to black in a single day when she got a line on a gentleman that she destined for No. 2."

"Love takes away all a man's intelligence," grumbled the Bookkeeper. "I've known men with most exquisite taste and the keenest perception—men that were absolutely connoisseurs in beauty—and yet who thought some snubbed-nosed, carroty-haired girl a perfect Venus because they happened to be in love with her.

"I had a friend once who was always touting his steady to me as a headliner in the female beauty show. She was the real thing, and it kept him guessing how such a living picture ever could have condescended to promise to tie up with an ordinary looking dub like him. Finally he took me to see her, and before we went I fortified myself with a couple of bracers so as to be able to stand the shock when this radiant female flavored upon me, and will you believe it, she was a little sawed-off doll, with a red head and a cast in one eye.

"I was so astonished I had heart failure on the spot, and my friend thinks to this day it was because I was so overcome by his ten-thousand-dollar beauty."

"I believe you," assented the Stenographer. "The most jealous wife I know is a woman who is married to a little weak, lump-shouldered man, who snuffles when he talks. No other woman would take him if you threw in a chromo with him, yet his wife thinks he's such an Adonis that any woman would leave her happy home for him."

"Love does work miracles, though," went on the Bookkeeper. "I've seen it hit a fellow who had a regular strangle hold on his purse, and it would make him a spender who was ready to hurl money at the birdies to make good with the girl. I've seen it turn a fellow who was such a slouch he looked like a member of the Hobo Brotherhood into a walking advertisement of the latest thing in clothes.

"And I've seen love work the greatest miracle of all," murmured the Stenographer, softly. "I've seen the radiance of love on a homely girl's face make it beautiful."

"Some time in our lives love turns us all into driveling idiots and posts, and we say things and do things that are such rot that we blush to remember them ever after," continued the Bookkeeper. "See, but it's a good thing love doesn't last."

"Y-e-e-e-s," said the Stenographer, "maybe it is." BELLE BLITZ.

"Before we went I fortified myself with a couple of bracers."

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN

Ladies' Cloak,

With or Without Sleeve Drapery

No. 6,225.—In this model we have the latest plaid cloth in black and white, with plain black, which will be all the rage this fall, and the frock is made with or without the vest. The sleeve drapery is a great addition although its use is optional. For a plain, serviceable, every day cloak, cheviot, melton or broadcloth, leaving off the sleeve drapery. This pattern is cut in sizes for misses from 14 to 18 years. The same model, plaided stuff, has a smartness in every fold. For better wear or for evening, one could use the pattern in its entirety and combining any kind of trimming. The tucked collar is a smartness of design and perfect lines do not really require any further embellishment. With a few yards of cloth picked up at a bargain counter one could fashion a garment at home that would cost fashion a garment at home that would cost hundreds of dollars. Imagine the cost of having it made. Cheviots, serge, tweed velvet or silk are suggested.

Sizes 14 to 18 inches bust measure.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN will mail the above pattern on receipt of 10 cents in coin to cover cost of handling etc.

Lessons in Cooking—viii

How to Make a Loaf of Bread

THERE are three most essential things to remember in bread making, besides, of course, the all important rule of absolute cleanliness. These are:

Sponge should never rise but once.

Upon the temperature of the room depends the time in which the sponge will rise.

Upon the mixing of the dough depends the lightness of the bread.

If the sponge is set the night before the bread is baked, it should be made with cold water or cold milk. The following recipe will make six loaves of bread:

Dissolve one and one-half ounces of compressed yeast in a pint of cold water or cold milk, and add a pound of sifted flour. Cover and set in a room with a temperature of between sixty-seven and seventy degrees. The sponge will take seven or eight hours to rise. For instances, if the housewife sets it at 10 o'clock at night, it will be ready for the first mixing at 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning.

When the sponge is ready add one heaping teaspoonful of salt, two rounding tablespoonfuls of sugar and two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter or lard. Mix with three or three and three-fourths pounds of sifted flour.

Knead briskly and well with the hands for about fifteen minutes. Then cover the dough and let it rest for an hour or an hour and a half. When it rises to the top of the pan punch the mixture down, and then let it rise for another half-hour. Then form in loaves and put in pans. Let it rise again for another hour. Put it in an oven of not less than 150 degrees temperature and bake about an hour.

Boston brown bread can be either steamed or baked. It is prepared in the following manner:

Take two pounds of sifted Graham flour, two pounds of sifted rye meal, one-half pound of sifted corn meal, one pint of molasses, one-half pound of seeded raisins, one heaping teaspoonful of salt, two rounding teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix well to a soft dough with three pints of cold water and mold into loaves. Either place the loaves in a steamer and steam them for three hours, or place them in quart covered ice cream molds, which can be bought very cheaply; immerse the molds in hot water and bake in that manner in a hot oven for three hours.

This recipe will make about three large loaves of Boston brown bread.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL FOR CARNEY HOSPITAL AT MECHANICS HALL

PROMINENT IN CARNEY HOSPITAL FAIR ARRANGEMENTS.

Women of Catholic Parishes Provide Fine Entertainment for the Public.

Dancing, Vaudeville, Concerts and Sales Attractions to Reduce Hospital Debt.

Mechanics Hall is gay with bunting, streamers and flags to-day for the annual festival in aid of the Carney Hospital in session. From 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. the women of the different parishes will strive to entertain and, of course, endeavor to out-do last year's record in the way of receipts.

All manner of ways of inducing the coin of the realm from the pockets of the visitor are there, and as it is "for sweet charity's sake" it requires but little effort.

Twenty-five tables representing the leading parishes, prettily decorated and offering for sale all manner of things, make up only one of the features. Dancing will be enjoyed in all day, a vaudeville program by talent from Keith's Theatre is being given, and band concerts by the band from the Working Boys' Home add to the enjoyment.

In Charge of the Tables.

The tables are in charge of Mrs. John Haggerty and a corps of assistants. Mrs. Haggerty personally is in charge of the Carney Hospital table; Mrs. John Sullivan the out-patient department table; Mrs. Bosworth, table of St. John's Church; Rev. Mother; Mrs. McDonnell, table of St. Thomas' Church, Jamaica Plain; Mrs. Coughlin, table of St. Francis De Sales Church; Mrs. John Roach, table of St. Gregory's Church; Mrs. S. Freis, table of St. Vincent's Church, South Boston; Mrs. Hannifin, St. Peter's Church, Cambridge; Mrs. Kane, table of St. Augustine's, South Boston; Miss G. J. Downing, table of Ss. Peter and Paul's Church; Mrs. C. F. Sullivan, St. Joseph's Church, Somerville; Miss Mary McCall, St. Peter's Church, Cambridge; Mrs. William J. Quinn, candy table; Miss Mary Lawton, graduate nurses's table; Mrs. Andrew Fein, Holy Trinity (German); Mrs. K. Beckman, Immaculate Conception; Mrs. Cunneen, St. Phillip's; Mrs. Delia Welsh, St. John's, North Cambridge; Mrs. M. H. Butts, class reunion; Mrs. John Sullivan, Sacred Heart of Heaven; Mrs. Charles Stanton, St. Patrick's; Mrs. Delbarta, St. Columbkill, Brighton; Mrs. J. J. Canan, St. Peter's, Dorchester; Miss Winnifred Brown, St. Margaret's; Mrs. H. Goodwin, Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

The festival is an annual affair, conducted for the purpose of reducing the heavy debt on the Carney Hospital. The hospital is conducted by the Sisters of Charity, Sister Gonzaga being president and treasurer. It is run at a cost of $76,000 annually, and is in receipt of no support from the city or State, depending solely on the public.

In past years the women have raised in the neighborhood of $8,000 by the festival, and with the splendid weather of to-day all confidently expected to do even better this year.

REAL INDIANS IN 'HIAWATHA' SHOW HIGH ART

Ojibway Legends, Songs and Dances Given at Chickering Hall.

By Kent Perkins.

Of absorbing interest and distinct educational value is the presentation of scenes from "Hiawatha," the Ojibway musicdrama, now being given by real, full-blooded Indians under the direction of Frederick R. Burton at Chickering Hall. A performance is given to-day at 4 p. m., another this evening, and the final opportunities to see this remarkable exhibition come to-morrow afternoon and evening.

This forest drama is given every Sunday by the Ojibways on the banks of Lake Huron. It is made up of scenes, incidents, songs and dances illustrating Ojibway mythology, most of the action being based on the legends used by Longfellow in his "Hiawatha."

Mr. Burton gives here only part of the drama that is performed in its forest setting beside Lake Huron, but the scenes are the real ones of the play, they wear all their beautiful and picturesque native costumes and, with the aid of incidental explanations by Mr. Burton and his interpretations of the songs with piano accompaniment, one is able to get a vivid idea of Indian dramatic art, ideals and life.

An Ojibway never is seen on the stage; Indian children are in evidence, from the opening purpose to the full-grown boys, who seem about in pleasing unconsciousness of the audience, and the whole company, from the little folk to old Scarface, who takes the part of the aged arrow-maker, gives a dramatic portrayal that many white actors with similar reputations might study with profit.

It is rare that any stage is filled with actors every one of whom puts into his work such sincerity, earnestness, intelligence, sympathy, fidelity and truth to nature as do these simple folk from the forest. Their gestures are the embodiment of grace and strength; their postures are distinct with dignity and naturalness; their dances, while grotesque to the white observer, are wonderful in precision, suppleness and rythm. Every actor in every moment, from the smallest child to the oldest brave, lives his part without a blemish of self-consciousness or a false note of any kind. See these scenes from "Hiawatha," and you will see Indians as they really were before the searing breath of the white man's civilization destroyed their better qualities and their picturesqueness.

Mr. Burton's work of transcribing, translating, preserving and illuminating with harmonic amplification the folk songs of these vanishing people, deserves the highest praise and the heartiest support.

News of the Theatres

Park Theatre.

"The Secret of Polichinelle" has made a hit at the Park Theatre and is being given to a succession of crowded houses. It deserves its success, for it is a thoroughly delightful. It is delicious in its comedy and most sympathetic in its heart interest. It is splendidly played by Mr. Thompson and his associates and is enjoyable from beginning to end, for the performance is of the sort that sends you away pleased with yourself and with the world.

Globe Theatre.

Stella Mayhew, in "Tip Top," at the Globe Theatre, has her old friends and wins many new ones. She is a clever comedienne, and in this piece has a role which furnishes her with many opportunities. She scores a personal success in a number of her songs, and does much to make the performance enjoyable. Next week's attraction at the Globe will be "The Fortune Teller," with Elsie Janis in Alice Nelson's old part.

Tremont Theatre.

Henrietta Crosman, in "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," is still attracting large audiences to the Tremont Theatre, and is once more delighting them. The play affording them much enjoyment. The play is cleverly written and the Miss Crosman comedy and bright action.

Miss Crosman is the same fine actress that is charming in the name part and is adding to the number of her admirers with every performance. The play is beautifully staged and finely acted by a very capable company.

Hollis Street Theatre.

William Gillette is always interesting in whatever he plays, and his performance of the title role in "The Admirable Crichton" at the Hollis street Theatre is no exception to the rule. It is one of the cleverest portrayals seen here in many a day, and he scores every phase of the character worthy of consideration. He is excellently supported and the presentation is in every way admirable and worth seeing.

Boston Theatre.

Herman Bernstein is still drawing big audiences to the Boston Theatre and "The Old Homestead" seems to be just as much liked as when it was first presented, ever so many years ago. There is no actor who enjoys a wider or deeper popularity, and he seems likely to retain his hold upon the affections of theatregoers as long as he continues on the stage. The other old favorites in the company have been warmly greeted and the present production is as good as any that has been given of the play.

Colonial Theatre.

Fritzi Scheff will give her last performance of "The Two Roses" at the Colonial on Saturday night, so if you have any chances remain for seeing this delightful production and singer in this charming opera, you should not delay in securing them. Both star and piece have made many friends here and the work of the company has been generally commended. Richard Mansfield comes to the Colonial next week, opening with "Don the Terrible," and promising a number of his most successful plays during his engagement.

Keith's Theatre.

Lloyd Ivey has made a hit at Keith's Theatre this week, and in conjunction with a remarkably good vaudeville programme is attracting large audiences. The accordeon exhibition by the Prosper troupe is very striking. Ed F. Reynard's ventriloquial exhibition is unusually entertaining. His figures represent the characters of a country town, and he is very successful in his dialect imitations.

Majestic Theatre.

Wright Lorimer's splendid production of "The Shepherd King" is close to the end of its run at the Majestic Theatre. Only two performances will be given Saturday evening, and those who have not seen this Biblical drama should take advantage of the few opportunities which remain. "The Shepherd King" is one of the notable presentations of the season. It is a good play and is finely acted and superbly staged. Ada Rehan comes to the Majestic next week, presenting "The Taming of the Shrew" on Monday, Tuesday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoon, and "The School for Scandal" at the other performances.

Music Hall.

May Robson, at Music Hall, is proving one of the best vaudeville attractions that has been seen here in a long time. Her performance of the "Silver" is very clever, and is marked by the skill that distinguishes all her character work. The "Six" champagne dancers have also made a hit, and the bill throughout is all it should be. The management has set a high mark, and seems to intend to live up to it.

Grand Opera House.

"David Harum" is pleasing large audiences at the Grand Opera House. The quaint character whose name gives the title to the play was popular in the novel and is popular on the stage, while the comedy excellently presents the story of the book. It is well played at the Grand, and the presentation affords much to amuse and entertain. Robert Fitzsimmons comes to the Grand next week in "A Fight for Love."

Castle Square Theatre.

"The Professor's Love Story" has proved a very popular attraction at the Castle Square Theatre, and is drawing large audiences. It is a delightful play, and the production by the stock company is giving much pleasure. Howell Hansel and Lillian Kemble are doing some clever work in the principal roles, and their associates are giving a harmonious performance.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

"True Irish Hearts" has just hit the taste of the patrons of the Bowdoin Square Theatre. It is the type of play that is always popular. It serves furnish an opportunity for picturesque stage settings, and its story of love in the ancient emerald isle is very entertaining. "Sing Sing" next week.

Columbia Music Hall.

"Fiddle-Dee-Dee" has made a hit with the patrons of Columbia Music Hall and is the best of the burlesques Manager Weber-Field shows so far given there. It is given a snappy performance by a large company and is handsomely staged. Adgie and her boys, who head the vaudeville bill, present feats of a startling nature, and the rest of the bill, which includes Frank O'Brien, the Salvaggis, Mattie Lockett, the Rossing Brothers and Cordia and Maud is of a popular order.

Howard Athenaeum.

Entire approval has been bestowed by the audiences at the Howard upon the bill provided for their enjoyment this week. The general average is kept up to high water mark and several of the numbers are reckoned among the best at their kind. The stock company gives a lively performance of the burlesque, "A Light Lunch," and altogether it is one of the best shows this house has offered this season.

Lyceum Theatre.

The Gay Masqueraders are giving a very pleasing show at the Lyceum Theatre this week and are meeting with the approval of the patrons of the house. The burlesques are entertaining and the olio includes a number of decidedly taking features.

Palace Theatre.

The show furnished this week at the Palace Theatre by the Dainty Duchess Burlesquers is even better than the average seen at this house. The burlesques are played in very lively fashion and are well staged, while the olio is an exceptionally good one.

Austin & Stone's Museum.

Lionel, the dime-devil boy, has made one of the sensations of the season at Austin & Stone's Museum, and is attracting large crowds. There are many other good features in the bill, and the show this week is one of the best that has been offered in it.

Nickelodeon.

Minnie Clifford, Mlle. Tunison, Carl Ford and the educated cats, Morris and Professor Hall are the features at the Nickelodeon this week. There is a good vaudeville show in the theatre.

MALARIA IN THE SYSTEM

Holly Springs, Miss., March 24, 1903.
Within a few months in Tennessee I saw twelve years ago a number of hands contracted fever and various forms of bowel and blood diseases. I carried S. S. S. in my commissary and gave it to my hands with most gratifying results. In fact I recommend S. S. S. as the finest preparation for Malaria, chills and fever, as well as all blood and skin diseases. W. I. McGOWAN.

I suffered greatly from Boils, which would break out on different parts of my body. I saw S. S. S. advertised and after using about three bottles I was cured, and for the last three years have had no trouble whatever.
A. W. ZERBE
217 Read St., Evansville, Ind.

I began using your S. S. S. probably ten years ago for Malaria and blood troubles, and it proved so good that I have continued ever since using it as a family remedy. It is a pleasure for me to recommend S. S. S. for the benefit of others who are needing a first-rate blood purifier, tonic and cure for Malaria.
C. C. HEMINGWAY.
Arkansas City, Ark.

Boils, abscesses, sores, dark or yellow splotches and debility are some of the symptoms of this miserable disease. S. S. S. counteracts and removes from the blood all impurities and poisons. Builds up the entire system. Guaranteed a purely vegetable remedy. Write for medical advice or any information about case.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, NOVEMBER 10, 1904.

Democratic State Victories Which Dictate National Policy

The American People Gladly Support Democratic Principles.

NO REAL Democrat is discouraged by Tuesday's tremendous Republican victory. The reasons for it are thoroughly comprehended by all men who understand the country's needs and its deep political currents.

Those who cry, either in exultation or despair, that the Democratic party is "smashed," "destroyed," "obliterated," do not know what Democracy means.

Nothing can kill the Democratic party except itself, and it can commit suicide only by persistence in being undemocratic.

The landslide for Roosevelt—or away from Parker, however you choose to put it—was certainly of gigantic proportions. But look over the ground it traversed and you will see much that gives profound encouragement to the true Democrat.

Consider the number of States which, though giving majorities for the Republican presidential ticket, nevertheless elected Democratic Governors.

ROOSEVELT CARRIED MASSACHUSETTS BY 86,279. WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS, DEMOCRAT, IS CHOSEN GOVERNOR BY 35,710.

Roosevelt carried Colorado by 10,000. Adams, Democrat, gets the Governorship by 7,000.

Roosevelt carried West Virginia by 25,000; Cornwall, Democrat, for Governor, by 10,000.

Roosevelt has probably carried the hitherto rock-ribbed Democratic State of Missouri, but Folk wins the Governorship by 25,000.

Roosevelt carried Minnesota by 100,000. Johnson, Democrat, is elected Governor.

Roosevelt carried Nebraska by 60,000, but the Democratic-Populist candidate for Governor is elected.

Roosevelt carried Rhode Island by 16,000, yet the Democratic candidate for Governor was beaten by the narrow margin of 594.

The whole country knows why Folk could not be vanquished. He stood so definitely, so conspicuously for SOMETHING that Missouri would have been shamed in the eyes of civilized men by his rejection. The something that he stood for was common honesty. A Democratic District-Attorney has made war upon Democratic boodlers and the corporate millionaires with whom they "did business."

The election of Douglas in Massachusetts—usually as safely Republican as Texas is safely Democratic—rises in its broad significance above all the rest. His Republican antagonist, Bates, secured the Governorship a year ago by a plurality of 35,984. Douglas goes in by a plurality of 35,710. This represents a shifting of 72,000 votes.

How came this political miracle to be worked in Massachusetts?

Organized labor did it.

In all the mill towns Douglas won by big majorities.

He had the steady and energetic support of HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN, because he represents REAL DEMOCRACY.

A manufacturer and a large employer of labor, Mr. Douglas is also a MAN, who believes in treating the worker with justice. And he opposes the shackling of trade with robbing tariff duties, that helped the Trusts at the expense of legitimate business interests and the whole people.

In supporting Douglas the BOSTON AMERICAN was supporting Democracy, genuine Democracy—and genuine Democracy has the same work to do throughout the United States that it has done so triumphantly in Massachusetts.

The labor vote elected Douglas. What is the Democratic party without the labor vote? What reason has the Democratic party to exist if it does not give cause to the men who toil to be with it?

The Roosevelt avalanche does not in the least alter the fact that the great, the overwhelming majority of the American people are DEMOCRATIC—the fact that they believe in equal rights, and are against special privilege.

Give them the opportunity to vote for Democratic principles—make the issue plain between favors for the few and fair play for the many—and they will vote for the right and in their own interest.

And the people are quite able to discriminate. Their adherence to Democratic candidates in many States who stood for something, while the Roosevelt tide was rushing, proves that clearly.

These Democratic successes, it must be kept in mind, were achieved under the most adverse circumstances—they could hardly have been worse.

To resist a political tidal wave calls for intelligence and steadfastness.

Douglas, Folk and the other Democratic Governors have their unmistakable lesson for the Democratic party as to what its national course must be if it is to escape the recurrence of such defeats as that which overtook it on the 8th.

The party has only to be Democratic in order to win.

There is needed simply a national platform containing THE FUNDAMENTALS OF DEMOCRACY—Jeffersonian principles applied to the conditions of today—and the excluding of extraneous things, of things that are not VITAL, no matter how dear they may be as hobbies to any leader or element. And on this platform there should be placed candidates who are KNOWN TO BE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE PRINCIPLES DECLARED.

The Trusts are in the saddle. They are confident that four years more of government by predatory wealth for predatory wealth has been secured, and secured by popular mandate. In their judgment the people are fools—easily managed fools.

They are mistaken.

The people were of the opinion that they had not been given an opportunity to vote against Trust rule, Trust robbery and corrupt interference in politics by the Trusts.

That opinion accounts for the Roosevelt landslide.

This republic is in a state of good political health.

The people know what they want.

That is demonstrated by the election of Douglas, of Folk and of the other Democratic Governors we see in the track of Tuesday's Republican flood.

IN ORDER TO WIN, THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY MUST BE DEMOCRATIC.

Governor-Elect W. L. Douglas Thanks the Boston American

By the HON. WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS, Governor-Elect of Massachusetts

To the Editor of HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN:

I wish to express my thanks for the earnest co-operation in this campaign of Mr. Hearst and his BOSTON AMERICAN.

The Democracy in the State of Massachusetts is to be congratulated upon having such an aggressive and enterprising newspaper advocating its policies and its principles.

DINKELSPIEL AT A BANQUET

By George V. Hobart.

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

UN of der most pat'etic sights to be vitnessed during der political campaign vas der eager speechifier dot goes fort', armed to der teet' mit heavy language und long, bitter vords, vich he vishes to hurl at der adversary.

I vas present at vun of dose political bankvets der udder night, und sitting next to me vas a chent bursting with combressed talk on der chest.

He hat a bad attack of pollysyllabus in der platitude.

Eating hat no charms for dot chent. Vot he vished to dit vas to arise himself and tear open a large package of eloquence.

I vould vish you to guess the name of dis chent, so, therefore, ve vill go after der scene togedder to see if you will recognition der voice.

"Vaiter!"

Der Saint Reuchus Pie Palace vas ablaze mit choy, und bright der lamps shined on brafe mens and polite soup-dragers.

"Vaiter!"

Vince more dot t'rilling sound.

Small, insistent, like der wolce of Fate, comes again dot vord. Mit a low moan of despair der vaiter rushes to der speaker und places before him der veny vish-bone of a leather-back durk.

A spasm of agony passes ofer der receiver's face und he glares gloomfully at der vaiter.

"Took avay der leather-back!" he commands, und his wolce sends a shudder through der rash register.

"Vot I vish to know is, how soon vill dis vulgar feeling burn itself ould?"

Der vaiter looks nonplussible.

"Vaiter!"

Der vaiter quivers subterraneously, und perspires loads on his brow.

"Himmel! how embarrassed!" set der colt, piercefut voice; "vot I mean is, dit dis mob come here mit a continuous appetite, or is it to slosh around in der suds und listen to me roast der opposition to a toast?"

Ad last der dawn vas breaking for der vaiter.

"I am a speecher!"

Der wolce vas less colt, less gruel in its tones now.

"I am a speecher, eager for der fray, and dis feeding pitiness vorries me. Is dare much more in der kitchen?"

"Yy?" vispered der vaiter.

"Because if dare is no rebate on dein hunger I vill address from dese shambles. I do not come to bankvets to eat like a vulgar lunch-grabber."

Der vaiter stood mit bowed head, und ofer und above all came der feerish cries of "Draw van; Frown der veats! Feel two morphies! Cut der apple! Stumble two eggs, please!"

"Vaiter!"

Der wolce resumes, bud it is now chubliant und vigorous.

"Eating is der vun curse of American bankvets. Der gifted few come here loaded mit der choicest diction, und ve haf to sit in serious silentness vile der vulgar majority gets loaded mit cornbeef hash und spaghetti. It is unnetressible!"

Der vaiter fluctuated between a fainting spell und a knockout.

But der wolce vent on: "Vile I sit here vaiting for a chance to turn on der stream of eloquence my future listeners smilingly peel der olives und bite feverishly into der pickles—ach! I am weary of it all! I am bursting to speech—I must speech. Vaiter, lock der kitchen doors—I vill speech!"

Mit a shriek der vaiter chumped down stairs und rushed cuid into der night und on, und on, away from dot small, insistent wolce.

But der wolce!

Who dit it emanation from?

Who is it in dis great campaign dot vould ladder talk den eat?

Is it Foss or Cole, Clarke or Benton, Hill or Fairbanks or—

To der vun dot sends me der fairest correct answer I vill gif a package of boneless oysters und some canned griddle cakes.

Little Editorials From the People

GIRLS, BE SURE A MAN IS REFORMED BEFORE YOU MARRY HIM

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Having been a regular reader of the daily and Sunday BOSTON AMERICAN since it was first published, I have been tempted many times to write and tell you how much I enjoy reading every part of it, especially the editorials. Miss Black's letters are full of good, sound logic and common sense. The Stenapher's and Bookkeeper's arguments are very interesting, and those love sick boys and girls who go to Miss Fairfax for aid I think always get excellent advice.

I am a man of sixty and have had good schooling and experience in love affairs. I would like to say a few words in regard to a girl marrying a man to reform him from strong drink and bad habits. When I was a young man I acquired an appetite for strong drink and became a drunkard. But twenty-nine years ago I dashed the glass down with a vow that I would not drink any more, and liquor has not touched my lips since. The appetite still lives. It never dies. I crave liquor every day and hour, and I know if I took the first glass I would be drunk and would go down again. My advice to girls is to be sure you have a reformed man before you marry him. If you know he drinks strong drink make up your mind he will not drink any less after you marry him.
